City Carpenters Vote for Strike Against Builder

Test Ballot May End in Tie-Up Of All Victoria Building Jobs

Decision to strike immediately, reached yesterday by carpenters employed by George Wheaton, paved the way for a major construction tie-up this week in the Greater Victoria area.

Yesterday's Government-supervised strike vote concerned 62 members of Local 1598 of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners (A.F.L.-T.L.C.)

Fifty-four carpenters turned out to cast ballots. Thirty-five voted yes, 19 no.

PICKET LINES

Picket lines will replace construction work on all Wheaton jobs this morning.

Union President Ernest Oliver said he expected other trades affiliated with the T.L.C. to honor the picket line.

"We plan as a result of this strike vote to apply to the Labor Relations Board to take other strike votes against other members of the Victoria Building Industries Exchange," he declared.

It is expected that any future move would be against all members of the exchange at once.

Decision of this section of union to call a strike followed the union's rejection of a unanimous conciliation board report for a new working agreement which was accepted by the Exchange but turned down by the union because of a work-stoppage clause.

The vote of Wheaton employees generally was regarded as a move to test the attitude of the Exchange.

SERIOUS BLOW

The strike, if it reaches major proportions, will be a serious blow to the economy of the city. It will directly affect more than 3,000 carpenters and other trades.

J. A. Pollard, president of the Exchange, which has a membership of more than 60 contractors, was appalled when he heard the results of the strike vote.

He said the Exchange would hold an emergency meeting today to discuss steps to try to avert a major strike.

Mr. Oliver announced that striking Wheaton carpenters would hold a meeting at 9 a.m. today in the Labor Hall, Broughton Street.

Top Europe Reds Gather For Conference in Berlin

BERLIN, July 19 (AP).—Top Communist leaders of Europe and Red China gathered in Berlin tonight for what appeared to be an important Cominform discussion.

Ostensibly these Red representatives from 18 countries came here as foreign guests for the third annual convention of East Germany's Socialist Unity (Communist) Party, which opens tomorrow.

But the prominence of the visitors and the fact that many of them were leading lights in the Moscow-directed Cominform suggested something bigger was afoot.

It was the biggest gathering of Communist leaders since the outbreak of the Korean war. It came at a time when Cominform pressure was being intensified against Marshal Tito's Yugoslavia. Western leaders also have been expecting increased Cominform pressure on Greece.

Palmiro Togliatti of Italy and Jacques Duclos of France were among the arrivals here.

The Soviet delegation consists of M. R. Suslov and P. N. Pospelov. Suslov is secretary of the Russian Communist Party's central committee and is Russia's Cominform delegate.

In London, the possibility was posed to day that the Cominform has been called together to approve some European move connected with the battle in Korea.

Rumors of the meeting grew as a Communist pressure campaign heightened against Yugoslavia and Greece.

City Woman Injured In Mishap

DUNCAN, July 19.—Shirley J. Brown, jewelry-store salesgirl of 3683 Topp Avenue, Victoria, escaped with minor injuries when her U-drive automobile slammed into the Koksilah River near here tonight.

Miss Brown apparently missed a turn onto a bridge across the river on the Cowichan Bay road, three miles south of Duncan.

A passenger in the car, Bill Caird, Cowichan Leader reporter, escaped injury.

The car was described as a total wreck by police.

Farmers Fred Brown and John Bessembinders heard the crash and ran to the scene. They helped the occupants out of the wreckage of the car.

They said Miss Brown's head was under water for some moments before she could be freed of the wreckage.

Fear Fifth Column

Asia Battle Gives Jitters To Red-Haunted Italians

ROME, July 19 (AP).—The Korean war has given Italian officialdom an acute case of fifth-column jitters.

Steady Communist losses on the peacetime fronts of elections and the labor movement, plus optimistic reports of United States aid officials, had lulled Italians into a sense of security.

The shooting on the 38th parallel changed this overnight.

As the danger of a third world war loomed, Italians took a close look and found that Palmiro Togliatti still claims 2,500,000 comrades, the biggest Communist party in Western Europe.

And Italy's 300,000-man army, navy and air force is the smallest of the major Atlantic Pact forces.

The implications of these twin realities jolted the country. Premier Alcide de Gasperi, winding up a Chamber debate on the Korean war, devoted most of his speech to the fifth-column danger. The Christian Democrat leader asserted his Government was ready to smash fifth-column attempts "at any cost, at any price and at any sacrifice."

But the speech reflected more the Premier's worry over the threat than any real preparedness to deal with it.

The influential, conservative Rome newspaper Il Giornale D'Italia said the Government faces "a real, grave problem . . . certainly not easy to deal with."

While the search for arms caches has unearthed enough material in the last three years to equip a small army, police officials believe much more is still hidden.

Sidney Queen Crowned With Sunshine and Flowers

Queen of the 34th annual Sidney Carnival and Sports Day, held yesterday afternoon at Sidney War Memorial Park, was Eleanor Coward (left). She was crowned before about 600 spectators by retiring Queen Joan Woolridge. Sun breaking through clouds made a perfect setting for the colorful ceremony.

Fast-moving sports day and a mile of marching was too much for eight-year-old Robin Pike, member of the Sidney Junior Band. He decided a short nap would improve the evening's entertainment as far as he was concerned.

Tighter Belts Near Truman Warns U.S.

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP). — President Truman tonight told the American people they are in for some belt-tightening because of the Korean battle and world conditions but said that scare buying and hoarding are foolish and selfish.

In short and simple language, he told the people much the same thing he told Congress earlier in the day when he asked for $10,000,000,000 down payment on a vast mobilization drive to win the Korean war and combat any Red aggression elsewhere on the global front.

The President said reports from United States top generals are reassuring but also show the job ahead in Korea is long and difficult as the result of "an act of raw aggression" by Communist forces.

As an extra safeguard against inflation and to help finance defence needs, Truman said "it will be necessary to make substantial increases in taxes."

He said he will lay a balanced fair tax program before Congress as soon as it can be worked out with the major aim of eliminating profiteering.

In his recommendation to Congress this afternoon Truman asked more military manpower, anti-inflation controls, a swift step-up in war production, additional huge sums to arm non-Communist countries and—later—a sharp boost in taxes.

Quickly the army, navy and air force announced that they would immediately call up a limited number of reserves. The President gave them the power to do so today, along with authority to summon the National Guard and draft more men.

Higher defence spending will go on for years, the President warned in a message he sent to the Senate and the House of Representatives.

Coupled with his recommendations, the President voiced a stiff warning obviously aimed at Russia, in these words:

"The free world has made it clear through the United Nations, that lawless aggression will be met with force. This is the significance of Korea — and it is a significance whose importance cannot be overlooked."

Boyer Leaves Penitentiary

MONTREAL, July 19 (CP).—Dr. Raymond Boyer, sentenced to two years in penitentiary for his part in the Russian spy ring, has been released, it was learned today.

U.S. Sends Reservists Active Call

WASHINGTON, July 19 (INS).—Defence Secretary Johnson today called a limited number of military reserves to active duty to meet special needs of the Korean war.

The call was announced three hours after President Truman told Congress he had given Johnson such power and asked the lawmakers to abolish the 2,000,000-man limit on the size of the nation's armed forces.

Legislation immediately was introduced to fulfill the President's request with the "utmost speed."

Johnson said reserves would be called for a minimum of one year's service. The armed forces have a total of 2,555,0000 reservists, including the National Guard. Johnson's call-up made no specific reference to the guard.

NO DATE SET

The Defence Department set no date on the recall but said it will be "initiated immediately." Military officials firmly refused to say how many men would be called up.

The Defence Department said the first recall orders will be dispatched "in a matter of hours" but declined to tell how many men would be affected. Officials said formal notification would be by mail, although some individuals will be summoned to duty by telephone and telegraph.

The army's "greatest current need" was listed as including medical officers, engineers and infantry officers in company grades.

The air force requires all types of skilled flyers, while the navy said its call would not affect volunteer reserves "except as necessary to fill specific quotas."

FEW DEFERMENTS

The navy statement said.

"No deferments will be granted except in cases involving key billets in industrial activities vital to the national defence and in cases wherein community welfare would be seriously affected.

"Waves and enlisted retired personnel will not be involuntarily recalled at this time."

The Marine Corps announced it would mobilize "certain selected units" but gave no designation of the groups.

West Coast Ports Rapidly Changing To War Footing as Supply Centres

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19 (INS).—Mayor Elmer E. Robinson today asked the San Francisco Board of Supervisors to appropriate $100,000 for use by the San Francisco disaster council and corps when and if necessary.

His action was illustrative of the speed with which the West Coast is moving to put itself on a war footing and hasten the flow of men and materiel to Korea.

The army, 36 hours after requesting them, yesterday took over two of the Port of Oakland's terminals, consisting of ten wharves, and was given immediate control of the port facilities which adjoin the Oakland army base and the Oakland naval supply depot. When all arrangements are completed the army will have approximately half of Oakland's port facilities.

The navy, meanwhile, said it has been authorized to hire 2,000 additional workers for its bases in the San Francisco Bay area. Calls also went out for 570 skilled workers from the Alameda naval air station. The Sixth Army is also recalling about 400 civilian employees to meet the rapidly increasing work load.

Most of the naval workers will be used at the big Hunters Point and Mare Island yards, currently engaged in "high priority" work getting laid-up ships ready to take the sea in support of the Seventh Fleet in the Far East.

At the same time the military sea transport service is moving rapidly to get the freighters into service necessary to keep the Far East forces supplied.

All told, 30 previously laid up ships are being put back into service in the bay area, and it was indicated that the number will be increased as the need grows.

Ten ships were recalled from the retired fleet in Suisun Bay today, including six transports and four cargo ships. Two hospital ships also have been recalled to duty.

PLANES OPERATING

Twenty-seven of 48 airplanes, C-54s and Boeing Stratocruisers, assigned to fly the Far East airlift under supervision of Pan American Airways as prime contractor, are already in operation and the others are expected to join in shortly.

All unauthorized persons have been barred from military bases and naval yards and the Coast Guard announced establishment of restricted areas around San Francisco naval shipyard and the Suisun Bay reserve fleet anchorage.

Strength Set At 56,400 Men

TOKIO, July 20 (Thursday) (INS).—The United States may have up to 56,400 ground troops in South Korea, if the three divisions now there are at average strength of 18,000 men each. There has been no official disclosure, however, of exact American strength on the battlefield.

U.S. Forces Repel Reds Before Taejon

North's Chance to Win Gone Says MacArthur Communique

TOKIO, July 20 (Thursday) (CP).—North Korean forces, beaten back in a frontal attack on Taejon, today resorted to infiltration and encirclement tactics in an effort to capture the now-abandoned temporary capital of South Korea.

While the Red forces were raking U.S. troop positions around Taejon from all sides, Gen. MacArthur issued a communique saying the North Koreans have lost their chance for victory. He based this statement on the fact that U.S. Eighth Army men have been deployed against the Communists.

ATTACK FAILS

The North Korean front attack on Taejon was led by eight medium tanks, all of which were destroyed by a newly-introduced U.S. weapon —the 3.5-inch rocket.

With the attack a failure, the Red forces were attempting to infiltrate through the north and south suburbs of the city and a report from Field Headquarters said they had reached a point astride an important highway and railway southeast of the city.

The encircling force was estimated at 400 men, half of which moved behind the U.S. defences.

MacArthur's communique said:

"With the deployment in Korea of major elements of the Eighth Army now accomplished the first phase of the campaign has ended and with it the chance for victory by the North Korean forces."

NEEDED SPEED

MacArthur explained that the Communist opportunity for victory depended upon speedy capture of all South Korea once the Red invaders crashed through the Han River lines south of Seoul. He added:

"This chance he (the enemy) has now lost through the extraordinary speed with which the Eighth Army has been deployed from Japan to stem his rush."

Another MacArthur communique issued this afternoon said the "prolonged lull" prior to the attack on Taejon today, "indicated the Communist invaders have been hit harder than originally estimated."

MacArthur's operational communique issued at 1:10 p.m., Japanese daylight time, noted the resumption of artillery fire which preceded this attack. It said "no decisive ground action" had been reported since the previous communique at 45 minutes after midnight.

Fighting continued around Yongdok, about 25 miles north of the First Cavalry Division's beachhead at Pohang on the east coast. South Koreans were attacking Red forces in that area.

American naval units off the east coast unlimbered six-inch guns and fired into enemy troop concentrations, road traffic and ammunition dumps "with considerable success," he stated.

The Reds continued moving troops into the region around Chungju, which is the springboard for a central-eastern flanking drive toward American communication lines southeast of Taejon.

With the western front suddenly aflame again after a three-day lull, two divisions of American troops, newly landed in Korea, rushed west and northwest from the east coast to safeguard Allied supply lines to the front.

The fresh Red attack was against the new positions of the U.S. 24th Division north and west of Taejon. Exactly where the Communists hit was not disclosed in field dispatches.

This was the first tank attack the Communists had been able to mount since they forced across the Kum Sunday night. The river defence line was overwhelmed in this thrust and shoved back to new positions nearer Taejon.

Allied aircraft shot up what few tanks the Reds sent across the river during the lull in the fighting that was broken this morning.

Reporting the new attack, A.P. Correspondent William R. Moore at advanced headquarters said it was not known whether the Reds had succeeded in repairing a blasted Kum bridge or in pressing a ferry into service. He added:

"In any event, the appearance of seven tanks south of the Kum river was strong evidence that another Red drive of considerable power had begun."

Jets Hit Invaders

TOKIO, July 20 (Thursday) (AP).—Land-based American jet fighters, striking north of the 38th Parallel, caught the North Korean Air Force out of hiding and gave it "some of the heaviest blows of the war" Wednesday, a Far East Air Forces communique said.

Eighteen Red planes were destroyed and seven damaged. This brought the total Communist losses reported by American air forces to 78 planes, against 37 Allied craft, a large number of which were operational losses.

The U.S. Navy announced two days of British and American carrier strikes on North Korea destroyed 32 Red planes and heavily damaged eight others. Presumably this total is separate from the recapitulation reported by the F.E.A.F. communique.

Cabinet Orders Step-Up In Defence Preparations

OTTAWA, July 19 (CP). — Cabinet today authorized an immediate acceleration of Canada's defence effort and spending that will add possibly 8,000 men to the regular forces, millions to the defence budget, and double the production rate of fighter planes.

It also approved the immediate dispatch of the R.C.A.F.'s No. 426 Transport Squadron and its eight or ten four-engined North Star aircraft to join in the United States airlift for Korea.

The planes, expected to leave Montreal in the next day or so, will fly a run from San Francisco to Japan. They will not take part in the fighting.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, emerging from hours of Cabinet and committee meetings, issued a statement that also said these things about Canada's echo of the new $10,000,000,000 United States mobilization program:

NO GROUND TROOPS

1. Canada won't send any ground troops to Korea "at this stage" but will immediately consider Canadian participation in any United Nations' plan to recruit an international force for that war. Such a step is under study at Lake Success. It would be submitted to Parliament for approval if Canada participates.

2. All three forces are to bring their regular units up to fighting strength, to recruit the men needed —they now have 47,000—and to ignore the present manpower ceilings.

3. The navy will take certain warships—two destroyers and two minesweepers—out of reserve.

4. The air force will step up its program to increase operational strength. Production of both the CF100 and F86 jet fighters is being doubled.

5. The army will bring its airborne brigade and other units up to full operational strength.

PACT STEPS

6. The Government is considering further measures to aid Canada's North Atlantic Pact partners. It is understood negotiations are proceeding to determine the sort of aid in war materials the Western European countries need although the basis for aiding them has not been determined.

There was no indication of what the program is going to cost or where the money will come from. Senior officials said that will take weeks to determine. But there appeared to be a good chance, some said, that it will drive Canada's record defence budget for this year from the $425,000,000 approved by Parliament to a figure beyond $800,000,000.

Favor Defence Measures

Republicans Say Truman Seeks Too Much Power

WASHINGTON, July 19 (INS).—Congress today rallied quickly behind President Truman's drive for victory in Korea, but Republican leaders declared the chief executive is asking for powers far in excess of what is needed for the task.

Democrats and Republicans were generally agreed that the President needs new authority to deal with the powderkeg international situation. But Senate Republicans decided in a policy meeting that Mr. Truman is asking for unprecedented power and that his program of controls is dangerously vague.

Senate minority leader Wherry (R., Neb.), who earlier pledged G.O.P. support for all the White House requests necessary in the "common cause," said the administration's emergency measures bill contains "powers that no President ever asked for in war or peace."

Republican policy chief Taft, Ohio, declared:

"It looks as if the powers go far beyond any necessity we know of at the present time."

Stubborn opposition to granting the president a "blank cheque" was foretold in Taft's contention that the emergency bill implies imposition of a ration system down to the consumer level.

The G.O.P. spokesman said the policy group had no time to give the bill a thorough analysis and that he was not sure what the phrase "allocation of facilities" means in one part of the measure.

Mrs. N. Baker Believed Killed

Mrs. Norman Baker, 1305 Morrison Street, widow of British Columbia's former civil service commissioner, was killed in an accident a mile north of Oliver, B.C., yesterday, according to reports in Victoria.

Provincial Police at Oliver tentatively identified the victim of an accident as Mrs. Baker, but were awaiting the arrival of relatives from Trail for positive identification.

Mrs. Baker was traveling alone, it was learned, and was on her way to Trail. Her car sideswiped a truck on the highway, according to police reports.

Among survivors are two sons, Howard, at Trail, and Norman, now at New Westminster.

Officials Disclose Details Of Defence Acceleration

OTTAWA, July 19 (C.)—Acceleration of Canada's defence effort as authorized by the Cabinet today was later elaborated by officials. Prime Minister St. Laurent's statement, an echo of the mobilization program announced today by President Truman, adds up to this:

KOREA

Air transport for the Korean war "is an immediate need." One of two regular R.C.A.F. transport squadrons will go "at once" to serve in the Pacific airlift. The North Stars flown by No. 426, commanded by Wing Cmdr. C. B. Mussells, 30, of Montreal, can carry six tons apiece. The squadron has about 300 men, air and groundcrew. It will have to establish its own supply bases across the Pacific from San Francisco via Hawaii and Wake Island to Japan.

The planes will come under American command but will have their own groundcrew.

Mr. St. Laurent placed no final bar against dispatch of ground troops to Korea when he said that "having in mind the other obligations for the employment of Canadian ground forces, the Cabinet has reached the conclusion that the despatch, at this stage, of existing first-line elements of the army to Korea would not be warranted."

He added:

"Should a decision be taken by the Security Council of the United Nations to recruit an international force for service, under the United Nations commander, in Korea, the Canadian Government will give immediate consideration to Canadian participation in such an undertaking."

Any such step would require approval by Parliament on the basis of his pre-prorogation statement.

The two contributions, naval and air, will raise Canada's manpower for Korea to about 1,000.

FORCES

The existing manpower ceiling of 50,434 is being lifted to undisclosed heights.

No mention was made of the number of men to be sought but officials said the army would be after 3,000 to 4,000, the navy less than 1,000, the air force 2,000 to 3,000. Total present strength is about 47,000 including 9,300 in the navy, 20,400 in the army and 17,300 in the air force.

Lowering of the present tough admission standards is being considered.

NAVY

"To be prepared for other eventualities, including the requirements for supporting the ships now in the Far East, authority has been given for the navy to place additional ships in commission, to bring others up to full complement and to recruit whatver additional men are needed."

The manpower on all commissioned navy ships will be brought up to full complement. They now are at peacetime training complements. This means that a destroyer now has about 215 men but will be brought up to around 280. This has already been done for the three destroyers heading for Korea.

Four warships will be brought out of reserve. This step will increase the home force and make ships ready to replace the three in the Pacific after a certain period of time. Naval sources said it might take from two to six months to get enough men and to make the other arrangements to put these ships into service.

AIR FORCE

Increase of R.C.A.F. operational strength will be speeded up by increasing the training of aircrew, radar operators and other technicians. Formation of additional reserve radar units at Toronto, Vancouver and Halifax is slated for the near future.

The monthly production rate of the two new fighter planes will be doubled. This won't hasten the start of big production, but will double it, once started next year.

ARMY

To strengthen the army "to meet future requirements," Cabinet has authorized recruiting above present ceilings "and the acceleration of other aspects of the army program."

Units of the airborne brigade, including two armored regiments, will be brought up to full strength. This is something beyond 5,000 men.

An anti-aircraft artillery unit that now is only a training unit will be brought up to unit operational strength.

TAXES

Should the current tense international situation continue or worsen, causing a resultant increase in Canada's defence spending, it will probably mean an increase in taxes.

The increased costs could be met in these ways: Higher taxes, cutting down the activities of other departments, or deficit financing by means of loans.

Girl Friend Backs Charge Police Helped Plan Holdup

MONTREAL, July 19 (CP).—Attractive Berthe Galipeau, charged with complicity in a bank robbery last December, took the witness stand today to back her boy friend's story that a pay-off was arranged for three Quebec Provincial policemen.

Her friend, Charles-Emile Poliquin, had finished his second day of testimony at the trial of Detective Lieutenant Marcel Patenaude, Detective Sgt. Gaston Archambault and former Detective Paul Hervieux. The three officers are charged with conspiracy to commit holdups and with inciting others to commit them.

Both Poliquin and the 25-year-old girl are due to be tried in St. Hyacinthe next month for the December 2 robbery of a bank at St. Hugues—a robbery that Poliquin said police helped him plan.

Nehru's Move for Peace Arrives at Apparent End

By EDWARD E. BOMAR

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP).—Prime Minister Nehru's move for a peaceful settlement of the Korean crisis came to an apparent dead end today.

In a second note to State Secretary Dean Acheson, the Indian statesman renewed and defended his suggestion that Red China be admitted to the United Nations Security Council as a prelude to a United Nations' attempt at settlement. He said he did not think this would be "an encouragement of aggression."

But State Department officials said no further American reply is planned. They were standing by their opinion that the United Nations' decision on Red China's membership should not be "dictated by an unlawful aggression" in Korea.

Moscow wants Communist China in the United Nations, and Prime Minister Stalin has said Russia welcomes the Nehru proposal.

The entire Acheson-Nehru exchange was made public by the State Department, by agreement with the Indian Government. Moscow had seized a propaganda advantage by pushing Stalin's reply a day earlier and calling it evidence Russia wants a peaceful settlement.

Stalin suggested that with the seating of the Chinese Reds on the U.N. Security Council that body could do the peacemaking job.

Acheson, the text of his note disclosed, stressed that the United States earnestly desires to prevent the spread of agression but rejects the idea of compromising with coercion. He said that Truman and he had given the "most thoughtful consideration" to Nehru's approach and deeply appreciated his "high purpose."

Acheson fixed the blame for the crisis on Russia and its satellites by saying "a small minority of the United Nations failed to meet their obligations under the charter and refused to use their authority and influence to prevent or stop the hostilities."

"The acceptance of their obligations and the exercise of their authority and influence in accordance with those obligations would restore peace tomorrow," he went on.

"A breach of the peace or an act of aggression is the most serious with which the United Nations can be confronted. We do not believe that the termination of the aggression from Northern Korea can be contingent in any way upon the determination of other questions which are currently before the United Nations."

Woodworkers Reach Accord

VANCOUVER, July 19 (CP).—Final contract agreement was reached today between Bloedel, Stewart & Welch Ltd. and the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.).

Tentative agreement was reached in mid-June, but the question of Saturday pay at a company plant here delayed signing of contracts. The plant operates seven days a week.

Agreement calls for time and a half for Saturday as well as Sunday work.

Other points in the contract, including a wage boost of 12½ cets an hour and a 40-hour week, were settled at the same time 163 coastal operators came to terms with the I.W.A.

New U.S. Defence Costs Equal Canadian Net Debt

OTTAWA, July 19 (CP).—The $10,000,000,000 requested from Congress today by President Truman for additional defence expenditures represents an amount almost equal to Canada's total net national debt.

Canada's net debt is slightly more than $11,000,000,000 and that included heavy expenditures during the Great and World Wars and the depression of the 1930's.

One Canadian Government official said today that, translated into Canadian figures, the $10,000,000,000 expenditure would represent an expenditure of about $500,000,000 for Canada.

PLANNED LIMITS

Canada had planned to limit its defence expenditures to $425,000,000 this year, but participation in the Korean War and a stepping-up of preparedness at home are expected to boost them considerably.

The additional $10,000,000,000 requested by President Truman will boost United States defence expenditures to about $27,000,000,000, an amount more than ten times greater than Canada's total estimated expenditures of about $2,400,000,000 for the current fiscal year.

Prior to the outbreak of the World War, Canada's total budget was about $500,000,000 a year, only slightly more than current annual defence expenditures. The peak annual expenditure was $5,332,253,505 spent in 1944. Any large increase in war spending in this country may have a material effect on a large section of the Canadian population.

There is already some speculation that the Government may have to delay inauguration of improved old-age pensions because defence has a priority on money available from the taxpayer.

Although Finance Minister Douglas Abbott forecast a surplus of about $20,000,000 for the current year, it could be quickly eaten up by defence spending. A deficit could lead to increased taxes next year. But that is a matter that probably will not be considered before the budget is brought down in 1951.

Father Freed On Son's Word

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP).—Eight-year-old Donald Conway, his left leg encased in a plaster cast, was lifted to a felony court bench beside Magistrate Frederick L. Strong today.

His father, Martin, 29, stood before the bench.

Suddenly Donald waved and smiled.

"At whom are you waving?" Magistrate Strong asked the boy.

"At my daddy," said Donald.

The father, accused of throwing his son out of a second-story window, July 3, began to cry.

"I fell out of the window," the boy said. "My daddy was asleep." When the boy was picked up from the sidewalk police said the youngster told them his father got angry at him and threw him out.

After other witnesses failed to produce evidence substantiating the charge, the magistrate acquitted Conway.

Korean Briefs

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., July 19 (INS).—The United Nations instructed its Korean commission today to investigate all reported atrocities and to make full reports for presentation to the General Assembly.

VANCOUVER, July 19 (CP).—Continuation of the Korean war may result in Vancouver becoming the only major "open port" on the Pacific Coast, shipping men said tonight.

This will result, they said, if United States coastal shipping centres continue busy with transports loading supplies for the war zone.

TOKIO, July 20 (Thursday) (INS).—Gen. MacArthur announced today that on the spot battlefield promotions for enlisted men now can be made in the Korean theatre of operations.

LONDON, July 20 (Thursday) (AP).—Russia announced today that her price for Korean peace still is unchanged—the admission of Communist China to the United Nations.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., July 19 (CP).—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said today collective action by free nations is the only hope for peace in Korea.

"Now is the time for hope—not despair or alarm. It may well be freedom's crowning hour if we accept the challenge."

TOKIO, July 20 (Thursday) (INS).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur in a victory prediction saluted the army, navy and air force today for their "unexcelled speed and precision" in hurling major forces into the Korean war.

SPOKANE, Wash., July 19 (INS).—The Spokane air force base said today a B-29 shot down recently near Seoul, Korea, was one of the 92nd Bomb Group planes that flew to the Far East from Spokane shortly after the war started.

TOKIO, July 19 (INS).—The United Nations Commission on Korea decided, today to increase the number of its on-the-spot observers to investigate atrocity reports and other matters concerned with the Korean war.

TOKIO, July 19 (AP).—Communist North Korea's Pyongyang radio said today correspondents of left-wing newspapers in Britain, France and other countries were arriving to cover the Korean war.

PARIS, July 19 (Reuters).—The newspaper Paris-Presse-L'Intransigeant today quotes Washington military circles as saying that Russia had chosen Marshal Malinovsky—defender of Stalingrad—to direct Communist strategy in Korea.

Marshal Malinovsky commanded Soviet forces in the East when Russia joined the war against Japan. The newspaper says he set up headquarters in Manchuria after the war ended, and was believed to have directed Communist strategy against the Nationalists.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19 (AP).—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower does not believe the atom bomb should be used in the battle for Korea.

"I believe that were I in the middle of this thing, I would avoid using anything that our own people or other peoples might consider inhuman," Eisenhower told reporters.

"It is imperative that we stand before the world as champions of decency."

Starlight Theatre's "Chu Chin Chow" Season's Top Production

No make-up will be needed by Muriel Jay (left) and Nellie Chung when they take part in Starlight Theatre's "Chu Chin Chow." They will be two of five Chinese girls cast as Chinese mannequins in season's biggest production. Girls are shown with Choreographer Aida Broadbent looking at sketches of their spectacular costumes.

Comedian Mickey Francis needed help from chair to get him up to eye-level of two tall girls chosen as mannequins for "Chu Chin Chow," which opens three-day run August 24. Extravaganza will have cast of 85, including Irene Strankman (left) and Irene Gay.

Colonist Photos

"Chu Chin Chow" will have wide variety of feminine beauty in its cast. Company includes 25 mannequins—five blondes, five brunettes, five redheads, five Chinese girls, five six-footers. Above are brunettes Jeanette Cook, Anita Tong, blonde Bertha Ricardo and redhaired Gael Beveridge.

DANCING ON GREEN

Under the auspices of the city parks department and the Y.M.C.A. there will be dancing on the green in Central Park commencing at 8 o'clock tonight.

A similar event will start at 7:30 in Beacon Hill Park. The Central Park event is being held for adults, the latter for teen-agers.

Outdoor movies will be shown in Beacon Hill Park at dark tonight under the auspices of the Victoria Film Council.

Only $3,000 Estimated Cost Of Children's Zoo in Victoria

Victoria could have a children's zoo for only $3,000.

Parks Administrator W. H. Warren made this estimate yesterday after studying reports of the success of the recently-established children's zoo in Vancouver.

The parks administrator recalled that he had pointed out to members of City Council last year the feasibility of inaugurating a children's zoo here.

He said children's zoos were proving to be popular attractions in many large United States centres. He stated that the Vancouver zoo had been established at a cost of $4,000.

Mr. Warren explained that children's zoos are stocked only with young animals and that wide use is made of barnyard animals. In some centres parents are not allowed to accompany their children as they go through the zoo.

"It gives them quite a lift to go into such places by themselves," commented Mr. Warren.

COULD PAY FOR SELF

He would not favor, however, the closing of a possible Victoria children's zoo to adults. Such an establishment could be made to pay for itself in a very short time if children and adults visiting it were charged very small fees, he stated. The intention would be to operate the zoo only during four Summer months.

Mr. Warren stated that Woodland Park Zoo in Seattle had supplied the Vancouver children's zoo with many young animals, thereby lowering the cost of its establishment.

"The Woodland Park Zoo has offered to supply Victoria with young animals if the city is interested in starting a children's zoo here," declared Mr. Warren. "The Vancouver Parks Department would also co-operate."

"This typifies the co-operation which exists between the various parks departments in this area," he added.

WANTS NATURAL FLOWERS

Parks Administrator W. H. Warren doesn't think much of the suggestion made recently that artificial flowers replace natural flowers in the hanging flower baskets so that Victoria streets could be adorned the year round.

The suggestion was made by Cecil French, well-known Victorian who makes a hobby of studying the city's history.

Mr. Warren explained yesterday that artificial flowers would degenerate under wind and rain conditions. While natural flowers have the power to revive following the attacks of weather, artificial flowers have no regenerative powers.

"We can grow natural flowers and make a good job of it," commented Mr. Warren. "Leave the artificial flowers to the other cities which are trying to imitate us."

Phyllis Salter, pianist, was soloist at Wednesday's Summer School of Education recital at Victoria High School.

Miss Salter, winner of several scholarships, has made guest appearances with the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra and has been heard on radio programs from Vancouver, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Her program included a Beethoven sonata (Opus 31, No. 3), Liszt's "Dance of the Gnomes," MacDowell's "Concert Study" and works by Chopin and Debussy.

THEFTS

William Campbell, 1033 Pandora Avenue, reported to city police yesterday someone stole a pair of trousers from his bedroom overnight Tuesday. The culprit, he explained, pried a screen off the ground floor window.

Theft of a $20 compensation cheque made out to G. A. Kerr, 632 Rayner Avenue, was reported by Mrs. Raynor. She said she left the house unlocked Tuesday afternoon and on her return noticed the cheque missing.

ENDORSE TAX STAND

The Municipalities of Kimberley and Grand Forks notified civic officials here yesterday that they had endorsed a resolution passed by the Victoria City Council opposing any move by the Provincial Government to earmark the municipal share of the sales tax for any particular purpose.

Previously 38 British Columbia municipalities had signified they would give their support to the Victoria resolution.

Loses Lawsuit On Arena Steel

Charles T. Hamilton, Memorial Arena consulting engineer, lost his suit for $54 against Luney Brothers & Hamilton Ltd., in small debts court.

Magistrate Henry C. Hall dismissed the case and awarded damages totaling $17 against Mr. Hamilton.

Mr. Hamilton contended that a contract specified that he should be paid $3 a ton for all steel laid in the arena's construction, including that laid on the floor by Luney Bros. & Hamilton.

H. W. Davey concluded the case without argument when he pointed out that the contract was between the city of Victoria and Luney Bros., and that Mr. Hamilton was not a party to the contract and therefore had no claim.

The hearing lasted not more than 15 minutes.

SUGAR DEMAND

The world's demand for sugar this year is about 15 per cent below the prewar average.

Sugar, Coffee Repeat Rise In Price Here

Sugar and coffee prices in Victoria have taken another jump in the past week.

"World conditions" are blamed for the second price increase in the past month.

The price of sugar rose 25 cents per 100 pounds at noon Tuesday. Ten days earlier it took a 15-cent jump per 100 pounds.

Wholesale coffee prices went up two cents a pound Monday—similar to a previous boost earlier in the month.

"Further increases are expected," said a local dealer, as he pointed out that coffee prices in the United States jumped eight cents a pound in comparison with Canada's four-cent boost.

Dies Suddenly

WILLIAM E. BOND

Former Saanich councillor and well-known Victoria druggist, died suddenly yesterday. Forty-seven-year-old past president of Victoria Gyro Club was manager of drug department in old Spencer's and Eaton's stores for nine years. He was member of Masonic Order. Mr. Bond was forced to withdraw from municipal affairs due to ill health. His home is at 1197 Palmer Road. He is survived by his wife, Irene; his mother, Mrs. L. E. Bond, both of Victoria, and brothers and sisters.

Only Three Seek Roles

Victoria Found Deficient In Supply of Redheads

Victoria has lots of just about everything in the way of beautiful girls, except redheads.

That fact was proved last night at tryouts for mannequin roles in the Starlight Theatre production of "Chu Chin Chow."

Production supervisor Warren Martin called for 25 girls. He kept his fingers crossed and hoped to get at least a dozen.

But when he finished counting noses, there were 78 girls jamming the rehearsal hall at the School of Theatrical Arts.

Hollywood choreographer Aida Broadbent thinned out the crop to get the required five Chinese girls, five tip-toppers in the six-foot bracket, five blondes and five brunettes. But in that mob of 78 girls, she could find only three honest-to-goodness redheads.

Mr. Martin is still hopeful. He's sure there are at least two more redheads in town. And if there are, he'd like to hear from them.

The three redheads already chosen for the walk-on parts in the big Oriental spectacle are Vivian Lindstrom, Dolores Lavoie and Gael Beveridge.

Blonde mannequins will be Betty Parker, Bertha Ricardo, Elaine Craig, Lorna Davey and Bernice Liddiard.

Brunettes will be Ruth Hayward, Mary Hayward, Jeanette Cook, Doreen Pendray and Joyce Fraser.

In the six-foot class are Alice Gay, Irene Strankman, Margaret Laubeck, Pat Sherar and Robin Stretton.

Adding a note of verisimilitude to the Eastern extravaganza will be five Chinese girls: Nellie Chung, Rita Quan, Lydia Leung, Anita Tong and Muriel Jay.

Saanich Considers Bus Stop Signs

SAANICH is investigating the possibility of erecting "bus stop" signs throughout the municipality.

A special committee headed by Henry Blakeney, superintendent of works, and including a Saanich police official and a B.C. Electric representative, is making a report on the plan.

It is understood about 345 signs would be needed. They would cost about $2.50 each, making a total outlay of more than $600. How the project would be financed has not been discussed.

The Free World Returns to a War Footing

IT hardly needed President Truman's frank warning that "new recourse to armed aggression might well strain to the breaking point the fabric of world peace" to envision a world rapidly returning to a war footing in defence of those freedoms which Hitler challenged and which again have been placed in jeopardy. The warning, of course, is intended for Moscow, and it is backed up by the first direct steps towards mobilization in the United States. There can be no doubt of that in respect of the President's recommendations to Congress; including more military manpower, anti-inflation controls, stepped-up war-type production, and large sums to arm the non-Communist nations in a ten-billion-dollar emergency program to be launched now.

By contrast, Prime Minister St. Laurent's statement after the Dominion Cabinet had met fades into relative insignificance; even though it does make clear the intention of this country to stand by the United Nations in joint efforts to restore peace and ward off a spread of the fighting through preparedness now. At that, Canada's three destroyers and first transport squadron of North Star planes will be among the first outside aids on the Korean scene. The Prime Minister adhered to his pledge to call Parliament if there is more to be done, but said that step was not considered necessary at present.

Much in a developing situation, will depend on how the Kremlin takes to heart the very evident intention of the free nations of the world to resist armed aggression wherever it shows its head. Their ability and capacity to do so is not to be weighed lightly, as Russia well knows. Whether it is heeded or not, Stalin has had his warning. The democracies have reached their resistance point, and do not intend to yield another inch.

Lip Service Will Not Put Wires Underground

THE City Council took the opportunity afforded by consideration of additional pole lines for the B.C. Electric to remind the utility company that new lines are supposed to be placed underground where possible. Since the council is on record as approving the principle of burying all dangerous and ugly overhead wires this might be construed as evidence of praiseworthy persistence in such a project. The facts, unfortunately, do not sustain such an idea.

Actually the council has been as lethargic as it claims the company has been in taking steps to protect both the amenities and the safety of the public in this regard. As for the wider aspect of the project, that of replacing all light, power and telephone wires with underground lines, it begins to look as though the council's original resolution on the subject was passed merely to appease the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs.

Admittedly the reconversion of lines in a city of this size is a major task, yet it is one that some other Canadian cities have not shrunk from attempting. It is a long-term project that needs study, planning and foresight, but of themselves these requirements are not insuperable, nor should they be beyond the capacity of Victorians. Everyone is agreed that the maze of overhead wiring is unsightly, unsafe, and unfitted to this modern age. Yet nothing positive is done about it.

The utility companies concerned have a part to play if the situation is to be remedied, but so has the City Council. Nothing will be accomplished unless both sides sit down together with obvious intent to explore all angles of the problem. If need be the council should appoint a committee that will give the matter continuing attention, so that at the very least there might be the promise that some day overhead wiring might disappear in part or in whole. Meantime, of course, it should be a corollary that no new lines are added to the disfiguration of the city.

What Inspired the Doukhobor Brief

IF representations made to Attorney-General Wismer by a delegation from the Doukhobor colony at Hilliers are to be accepted, Michael (the Archangel) Verigin and his righthand man, Joe Podovinikoff, are just two big, lovable fellows who never did a wrong thing. Whatever their conduct may have been since the founding of the settlement on Vancouver Island two years ago, this partisan assessment of the past character of the now imprisoned men is the antithesis of the official record.

The charges on which Messrs. Verigin and Podovinikoff were sentenced related to a series of grave offences in the Kootenays before the emigration to Hilliers, and were the culmination of years of patient investigation by the authorities. More than two years before the charges were laid the Sullivan Commission delved into the records of these two men and came up with findings of a most discreditable nature, which belie the contention of the delegation that they "constantly deplored violence, nudism and disturbing the peace in any form." Added to that, "the Archangel" did a lot of public repenting when he founded his new colony, which seems strange if, as his adherents now maintain, he never had anything to repent.

The "Mothers for Peace" who are seeking the release of the two prisoners have impugned the motives of the trial judge and jury and the whole policy of the Government in Doukhobor matters. The wording of the brief presented to Mr. Wismer raises a strong suggestion that it was prepared for them by someone else—someone whose motives may not be altogether those of seeking redress of a believed wrong. There is a familiar ring to the reference to the "process of law and mental suasion" being used by "superior power and wealth to unjustly crush two innocent individuals under a steam-roller of prevailing policy."

Letters and Excerpts

Letters to the editor on any topic of genuine interest are welcome if they are brief, accurate and fair. No letter will be inserted, in whole or in part, except over the proper signature and address of the writer. Unsolicited correspondence cannot be returned.

BOWS AND ARROWS

Sir,—It was with amazement on reading Mrs. Huntley's letter in a recent issue of The Colonist to see that the British Columbia Government has legalized the shooting of big game with bows and arrows, against the advice of the game warden and the S.P.C.A. Surely, in this enlightened age, we can get away from brutality to wild life that cannot defend itself against the weapons of man. Every shooting season it is a pity to see the wounded birds lying near lake shores and through underbrush. By law, no person (unless he is a proven shot) should have a shooting licence.

It is with dread that citizens with humanitarian instincts see the opening of shooting season, when men and women arm themselves with guns and equipment as if they were going to fight an enemy instead of innocent wild creatures. Under the law of shooting no game should be shot unless it is on the wing, with a dog at your heels to pick up the wounded game.

We Victorians can remember only last year a poor seagull that was noticed with an arrow through its body. This bird was captured, the arrow was withdrawn and, after the bird recovered, it was returned to its natural life.

It is hoped a very strong opposition is put forth to the Provincial Government against this brutality.

A. McLEOD BAIRD.

630 Oliver Street, Victoria, B.C.

SAUCE FOR THE GANDER

Sir,—There is an old saying that "actions speak louder than words," when you need an Iron Curtain to hide your virtues behind, etc.

The Russian and Doukhobor mind and way of thought are evidently identical. After fifty years or so in Canada these demonstrators of truth and freedom have absorbed from our country (that they have unfortunately adopted to make their home in) none of our ideals or way of life. Russia is, of course, a land of freedom, truth and democracy. It is quite obvious that the Doukhobor is a very accurate demonstrator of Russian views and intellectuality in general.

To overcome our imperialistic and capitalistic qualities, would it not be possible for Canada to utilize these people as an advertisement to show Russia's conception of truth, loving kindness and the freedom to do just as they wish. That only exists in Soviet Russia.

Instead of standing with our mouths open, flabbergasted at Russia's benevolent actions, why should we not take a leaf from her book and treat all Communists within our borders in the same manner that Russia has treated her German prisoners of war or those who do not agree with her, wonderful principles?

If we could only get out of our groove of hypocritical smugness, we might develop our vast northwest territories with these well-wishers and happy boosters of our way of life in exactly the same manner that Russia utilizes Siberia.

After all, "Sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander"—or is it?

NEVILLE G. FAIRWEATHER.

Saseenos, R.R. 2, Victoria, B.C.

From "The Dead Bird"

Motionless, cold, shrunk thou liest
Thy colour faded, thy once gay feather-garment mutilated,
Thy senses gone, thy pulse stopped,
Thy warm blood cold, thy loving mother-heart stilled.
Thy sharp circumspective moment-glimpsing eyes closed,
Thy upright proud head now drooped and sunk,
Thy quivering sensitive claws now shrivelled and tight and numb,
Thy beautiful wings thy greatest power,
Thy beautiful wings thy greatest force,
Thy beautiful wings that carried thee on the winds,
Thy beautiful wings made thee queen of the air and space,
Thy beautiful wings fluttering countless times a moment,
Thy beautiful wings now lie limp and closed.
From thy trees death hath taken thee.
To this lonely and unvisited place . . .

—MAX WEBER.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

PERSONAL names are not of themselves peculiar, even if some of them appear odd, since if we had no names we would require numbers and these would become astronomical. It is when they are compressed into initials they betray peculiar preferences.

There is the name of a British admiral I came across in a newspaper—A. E. M. B. Something-or-Other. This seemed such a lot of initial it set me wondering. Offhand, I would think it awkward to use so many letters in a service career, but apparently it has not handicapped the admiral in question.

Unless we change our patrynomics by deed poll none of us has any control over the names our parents wish on us, and at the moment of christening any noise we make is never assumed to be an objection to the appellations being bestowed. Not a few individuals, I daresay, are presented against their subsequent will with four (or perhaps even more) Christian names; but when they step out into the world they generally manage to keep all but two well out of sight.

* * *

I took a notion to check the habits of Canadians, Britons and Americans in this respect. The handiest guides were almanacs which listed government officials, and of a truth these gentlemen might be deemed the kind of people who would give initials the fullest flavor possible.

Canadians, it seems, are content with the capital letters of merely two Christian names. If they have more, they keep the fact secret like a closet skeleton. A few Canadian officials put A.B.C. or its varied equivalent before the surname, and a few are like this writer and have only one Christian name to boast. The majority, however, use two initials.

The same can be said for the Britons, except that greater numbers of them are not averse to being known by three initials. Some Whitehall officials unabashedly list as many as the vice-admiral, but they are in a decided minority. Two initials are by far the most popular. There are so few single-initial men they look as though they lacked something, as of course they do.

The two-letter trait must be widespread, for it turns up among most Americans, too—but with a slight variation. The majority of Canadians and Britons are satisfied with a plain T.R., J.C., M.G. or suchlike, but across the line the use of the first Christian name is prevalent—John W., Richard S., Francis P., etc.

* * *

But Americans run mainly to the common English-speaking pattern of two-letter men. They have one other peculiarity, however, that is more marked among them than elsewhere. They like to tag "Junior" on individuals who have the same name as their fathers. This seems logical if there is likelihood of confusion, but why the "Junior" should be perpetuated when the fathers are dead is rather a puzzle.

In all three countries there are those who sign their names like J. Edgar Hoover does, stressing the second name at the expense of the first. A random page in the telephone directory shows there are some Victorians among them, and there is a fair sprinkling of one-letter individuals here too. The local preference, however, is also for the double initial.

When it comes to personal names there is thus a close affinity between Canada, Britain and America. So that the main peculiarity of English-speaking peoples is that they agree so well on the number of initials to be used.

Inside Stalin's Hideout

Second of three articles by a Soviet architect who planned part of the interior of Stalin's Kremlin home and was last there in 1936 to attend to refurnishing and repairs.

By IGOR MOLTYANOV

North American Newspaper Alliance

COPENHAGEN.—Stalin's real study at Nadesjda is dominated by an enormous desk, on which a bronze figure of Lenin is standing. The walls are adorned by portraits, most of which represent Georgian champions of liberty, who are little known to the rest of the world. There are, however, also more actual portraits—as, for example, of Stalin's first wife, Allilujeva; of Korov (a party leader and a personal friend of Stalin's, who was murdered in 1934); of Lenin, of Marx and, strangely enough, of Togliatti (the Italian Red leader). None of the members of the Politbureau have had the honor of having their portraits hung in the room.

On the desk are two telephones. One connects Stalin, day and night, with Molotov, Malenkov and Beriya in Moscow; the other with Marshal Malinovsky, who has his headquarters somewhere in Manchuria and is military adviser to Mao Tse-tung. Stalin can speak directly into the microphone without having to move from his magnificent armchair.

* * *

Stalin's bathroom is not close to his real bedroom, but to his official one, and therefore he has to take a little walk every morning to get to it. He stays there only a short time. Every Saturday afternoon, however, the dictator takes a bath under the supervision of his physician and in the presence of the valet, Jefim. For 11 years Stalin has been forbidden to enjoy steam baths because of his heart ailment. There is, nevertheless, a steam bath close to the bathroom.

Usually, Stalin wakes up after eleven o'clock. Despite the prescriptions of his physician, he does not like to remain in bed, but gets up at once and washes himself rapidly. He then puts on a simple white dress, consisting of trousers and a tunic in uniform style made of Caucasian raw silk in warm weather, or a suit of ordinary grey wool in chilly weather. Afterward he breaks his fast. He does not like to eat alone in the dining-room. They say that the presence of the servants irritates him. The dining-room is, therefore, used only when there are guests.

Among the visitors are often Stalin's daughter, Svetlana, Malenkov, Molotov, the Russian scientist Kaftanov (political commentator of Pravda), Viktorov, Stalin's son (Gen. Vasilli Stalin), and his old mother. It is no secret that Stalin has not succeeded in persuading his mother to settle down in these magnificent surroundings. She prefers to live in her small, but comfortable, house at Gori, Stalin's native village, and only rarely comes to visit her son. It never happened that he visited her; at least nothing is known to that end.

He eats his breakfast usually in his bedroom on a tray. This meal consists of lightly boiled eggs, of some sandwiches and of tea, which sometimes is colored by a little red wine. He never takes milk or coffee. Stalin likes to put several lumps of sugar into his tea, but he is not permitted to drink much.

* * *

About 1 p.m. he receives his personal secretary, Turov, who in a few words gives him a review of the latest news of the Russian press and radio and of the news from abroad and who reads to him the daily report from the office of the Politbureau, comprising usually two to four typewritten pages. The whole procedure rarely lasts longer than three-quarters of an hour. Stalin reaches then for The Pravda or The Izvestia, reads them thoroughly and makes his comments. This often takes place on the splendid terrace in the shadow of fig trees—if the weather permits it.

Soviet Russian broadcasts can be recorded in a special cellar laboratory, when enables Stalin to hear speeches and other programs, according to his choice, with a delay of three-quarters of an hour only.

Slow Progress of Mercy

(From The Globe and Mail, Toronto)

EVERYONE with a heart will be relieved if a humane trap for wild game has finally been devised. A letter to this newspaper recently told of such a device which instantly kills the animal it traps. The English invention was apparently in response to a standing reward offer by the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals for a merciful means of trapping rabbits.

It is a sombre reflection that it has taken about a century to improve on the spring trap. Anyone who pretended that device produced numbness and so was humane need only have experimented on himself by wearing one for a few days. A visit to any trap line would give him ample proof of how merciful the trapped game found it.

The laggard evolution of the steel trap has an explanation, although not a pleasant one. There was no economic compulsion to spur it on. In the last century science and inventive genius have brought innumerable refinements in civilization. For the comfort of man, invention paid. Important discoveries were made in the treatment of the wild skins so barbarously acquired. But the old steel trap produced—and that seemed to be all that mattered. Remorse for past cruelties finds some appeasement in the hope that the new discovery being studied by the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests will prove practical for wild game.

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

FARMERS are kicking themselves all across the country. It seems that in the last war there was a powerful drive for scrap metals of all sorts. And one rich source of iron and steel lay in the fields of Canada's farmers where, in neglected fence corners, old farm implements lay idly rusting.

The farmers, shaken out of their normal good sense by the shocks of war, cheerfully assented to the collection and removal of these old eyesores from their fence corners, sheds and back of the barns. Some of them even went so far as to drag the busted old implements to town, in the heat of salvage drives.

But now, with Summer on, the harvest looming and the labor of the farm rising to its peak, where does a farmer go for a bolt? Or a brace? Or a wheel? Where his father and his grandfather went before him, and where he should be able to go: down to the fence corner of the back twenty, where some old implement lay abandoned, a source of spare parts for a hundred occasions.

We city slickers have always thought those old implements were useless encumbrances. So, in the heat of war, did the farmers. But they were no such thing— They were property, however rusted, however leaning, or half sunk into the soil. And a very special sort of property whenever, a bolt or a brace or a bar breaks now in the midst of the harvest. Instead of walking across a field, the farmer now has to leave his work and drive into town, to one of those tidy shops with spare parts in labeled bins. Sure he can get what he wants. But it doesn't ever fit quite so well as would some old rusty piece taken from that reservoir of spare parts that used to lie back there, in the south-west corner . . .

A national emergency is something every man should share. Patriotism is a noble sentiment. A good farmer can be recognized by the condition of his implements. But a real farmer likes to have a little junk lying about, handy.

Looking Back

Through Colonist Files

25 YEARS AGO—The fifth annual Anti-Crime Conference under the auspices of the Northwest Association of Sheriffs and Police will open here today, with upwards of 1,000 Canadian and United States delegates from California to Alaska.

50 YEARS AGO — The Mount Sicker Townsite Company has placed on the market lots in a townsite which has been surveyed, adjoining the famous Lenora Mine at Mount Sicker, termed the "future Rossland of British Columbia."

85 YEARS AGO—The City Council did not meet last night. We understand that two or three independent and zealous councillors found it convenient to absent themselves to prevent a quorum being present.

Indians Hoping to Share In Wealth if Oil Found

EDMONTON, July 19 (CP). — A tribe of about 230 Cree Indians living on the Winterburn Reserve nine miles west of Edmonton, soon may become the richest redskins in Canada.

Imperial Oil Limited is drilling a wildcat well on the serve, which oilmen say has good chances of producing oil. Oil already has been encountered in non-commercial quantities in the Viking sand and Devonian limestone strata, common to the rich nearby Leduc and Woodbend fields.

Today, with a group of anxious Indians looking on, Toolpush O. Stuckey and his crew were drilling below the 5,000-foot mark heading into the D3 zone of the limestone, also an oil-producer in other fields.

The Indians own the oil rights on their land and will be entitled to 12½% royalty from all production. If a new oil field results, the Indians' take from one well alone would be close to $100,000.

At present, they are all farmers. Most of the 30 square miles in the reserve is under cultivation.

Actually, the Indians don't expect to get much money in cash. It is expected the Indian Affairs Department will keep the funds in trust to make improvements on the reserve.

But they hope to get some cash, and almost every evening a group gathers around the well to spin tall tales about what they will do with the wealth.

Pat McDonald, who left his farm today to watch the drillers, said he'd like to buy a new car. He already has a tractor.

EARTHQUAKE

ROME, July 19 (AP).—Panic-stricken inhabitants fled Messina, Sicily, today as a violent earthquake shook the area. There were no reports of damage. A great earthquake at Messina took 75,000 lives in 1908.

Seoul, capital of South Korea, had a population of 935,464 in 1940, according to that year's census.

Victoria Flyer To Head Field

OTTAWA, July 19 (CP).—The air force today named 30-year-old Group Capt. R. J. Lane, of Victoria and Ottawa, to command the R.C.A.F. station at Edmonton.

GROUP CAPT. R. J. LANE

He will succeed Group Capt. J. C. Scott, who is going to Washington as assistant A.I.C. attache on the Canadian joint staff.

Now serving at Air Transport Command here, Group Capt. Lane completed two operational tours overseas and was awarded the Distinguished Service Order and the Distinguished Flying Cross and Bar.

Oddities

CHERTSEY, Surrey, England, July 19 (CP).—Gillian Fish, 6, fell into deep water near Chertsey bridge.

Her mother jumped in after her. Mrs. Lillian Reepe dived in to save Mrs. Fish and Gillian. And Mrs. Ruby Allsop fell in trying to help.

A policeman rescued all four.

DOWNEND, Glos., England, July 19 (CP).—Peter Gillingham, 17, is the only boy at a girls' school.

Peter hurt his spine when he was ten. When he recovered it was decided that a boys' school would be dangerous, so he went to Downend Girls' Secondary School.

Six-foot Peter said: "When I first came here, I felt like creeping under the floor. But the girls were so jolly nice I felt quite at home."

GLENDALE, Calif., July 19 (INS).—Eighty-year-old Rufus S. French boasted 40 years of safe driving—until a horse came along and spoiled his record today.

He was cruising along a Glendale street when a saddled but riderless horse galloped up to his car, stomped in the hood, kicked out the windshield and galloped on until police caught it several blocks away.

HALIFAX, July 19 (CP).—Nova Scotia is ahead of Scotland in promoting Highland culture, Maj. C. I. MacLeod, director of Highland Scottish culture for the province, told a service club yesterday.

In Scotland, he said, Gaelic culture is preserved to some extent through an education department but mainly through Gaelic groups. Nova Scotia's Highland division, under the education department, put the province ahead of the Old Country.

Rate Boost Will Be Reimposed

OTTAWA, July 19 (CP).—The Board of Transport Commissioners in a judgment today authorized the railways to reimpose increased freight rates on agricultural implements moving from Eastern to Western Canada.

In December, 1948, the railways imposed higher rates on the movement of farm implements. Several objections were raised and the board ordered on January 11, 1949, that the increased rates be suspended pending a hearing of the objections.

The board said that in its judgment, based on hearings last September and October, the railways were justified in applying higher rates to farm implements.

At Montreal, Canadian National Railways officials gave some comparative figures showing the increases in rates. They said rates applied by both railways following the board authorization are much the same.

The charge of moving 100 pounds of freight in this category from Montreal and Toronto to Western points (old rate bracketted): Winnipeg, $1.46 ($1.20); Calgary, $2.60 ($2.41); Saskatoon, $2.16 ($2.03).

No Soldiers Promised To Help U.S. in Korea

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

LAKE SUCCESS, July 19 (AP). — United Nations forces fighting Communist aggression in Korea are growing slowly, but no combat troops have been formally pledged so far to join American troops on the battlefield.

Trygvie Lie, United Nations Secretary-General, dispatched an appeal last Friday to 52 of the 59 United Nations members for all help they could give. To date, he has not been pledged one soldier. Britain alone appears on the verge of committing troops although there has been no definite decision yet.

United Nations officials say no formal replies have been received, but they add quickly that decisions must be made on the highest governmental levels and the process takes time.

There has been talk of an international brigade of volunteers, but the United Nations made it clear such volunteers must work through their home governments and not with the United Nations itself.

Nationalist China offered early in the war to fly 33,000 trained combat soldiers, complete with equipment, to Korea, but the United States shied away. The United States is said to fear Communist Chinese troops will join the North Koreans if Chiang's men go.

Aid and prospective aid to Gen. MacArthur, supreme United Nations commander in the field, shape up roughly along this line, on the basis of reports received at United Nations headquarters:

Britain quickly placed naval units at the disposal of MacArthur and those ships have been reported in action. The Cabinet is said to be considering sending troops also. Australian planes on duty with the occupation forces in Tokio were thrown in the battle almost immediately and there have been some signs that stronger help may be sent from Australia, such as warships or more planes.

Canada has sent three destroyers. The Dominion is also reported ready to turn over a squadron of transport planes.

New Zealand has ordered two frigates to join the Korean force.

France decided today to send the 1,969-ton sloop La Grandiere, now on duty in the Far East, to MacArthur's command. The Netherlands sent the destroyer Evertsen to Korea, but ruled out the use of Dutch troops. Norway's Government is reported to have offered shipping, useful in ferrying troops and supplies.

Aid may come from at least three Latin American nations—Nicaragua, Brazil and Argentina.

U.K. Let Down Says Churchill

LONDON, July 19 (Reuters).—Winston Churchill, in a clash with Defence Minister Manuel Shinwell in the House of Commons today, alleged Britain was being "shamefully let down" over defence.

Shinwell had declined to give any further information about Britain's defences when questioned by Brig. Terence Clarke, Conservative.

Churchill asked if he would make some answer to this question in a defence debate next week.

Shinwell replied that if there were a debate he would do his best "to satisfy the natural curiosity of Mr. Churchill."

Churchill retorted, amid a burst of Opposition cheers, "It is not natural curiosity to try to know to what extent one's country is being shamefully let down."

Shinwell said Churchill had no right to make such allegations until the Government had presented the facts.

Earlier Air Minister Arthur Henderson told questioners that radar defences are being modernized and extended.

Many Towns in Quebec Tricked by Red Petition

QUEBEC, July 19 (CP).—Two or three dozen Quebec Roman Catholic villages with names like St. Jean-Baptiste des Ecureuils have become dupes in the Communist game of peace propaganda.

They have been startled to find themselves publicized as supporters of the "Stockholm resolution" calling for a ban on atomic weapons as part of a "world peace appeal."

The mayors and councillors of the rural settlements with little or no investigation signed petitions mailed to them and asking for their support for a purported peace movement.

A list of towns and villages issued by "Le Conseil de Quebec Pour la Paix" (Quebec Council for Peace) and describing them as official endorsers covers 28 Quebec counties.

"STERN WARNING"

A mimeographed statement with the list says that as a result of developments in Korea the peace petitions are a "serious and stern warning" to the Canadian Government against involvement in a third world war.

Village councillors have been shocked to hear that the province's League of the Sacred Heart says they endorsed a "Communist petition."

The way the endorsement was given in St. Flavin de Lotbiniere, for example, was described by Mayor J. Alfred Paquette.

"It was from Montreal or some other place in Canada," he said. "It was from some association or other and was written in French. If I'm not mistaken, the council subscribed $5 to the movement. I couldn't be sure."

Control "Bugs" Delay Testing Of Big Rocket

COCOA, Fla., July 19 (AP).—Technical difficulties delayed the scheduled firing of a double-header rocket out over the Atlantic today.

The rocket, a two-stage "bumper" built around the German V-2 with a little "Wac Corporal" in its nose, was supposed to whoosh on its way about 5 a.m. E.D.T.

Difficulties in control circuits caused a series of postponements.

It was arranged as the first horizontal or low-angle firing of the V-2 in the United States, as well as the first lauching at the sprawling base operated by the Air Force as a missile proving ground. Against Britain the Germans fired the V-2 up to 220 miles.

The experiment in low-angle firing marks a new phase in the struggle for development of rockets into a long-range, accurate weapon.

The Army project already has studied in six previous straight-up firings the problem of launching a small rocket from the nose of a spent or nearly spent larger rocket.

This new phase goes into the problem of air effects on high speed rockets—3,500 to 5,000 miles an hour—flying at relatively low altitudes.

Col. L. Turner, top army representative at the proving ground and a leading expert in the field, said the goal is to achieve "pin-point accuracy with rocket missiles compared with a German record of dropping them within 10-mile radius of the aiming point.

Order Placed On Mains For Saanich

Tender of the National Iron Corporation, Vancouver, of $29,000, has been accepted by Saanich for 20,000 feet of four-inch water pipes and 5,000 feet of six-inch pipes, H. D. Dawson, municipal engineer, said yesterday.

The piping will be used partly for the municipality's pipe replacement program, and partly for installation on new subdivisions under local improvement and other new connections.

At the beginning of this year the council placed $27,500 in the waterworks estimates to institute a gradual scheme of replacement of two-inch water mains. The money will be taken from waterwork funds.

Two-inch pipes have been one of the big troubles with Saanich's water system. Because of frictional resistance in the small pipes, water doesn't travel through them in adequate quantities. It has been explained that water being piped to the municipality is adequate, but the great lengths of two-inch mains are bottling up distribution.

Young Motorcyclist Injured In Collision of Three Vehicles

A 26-year-old motorcyclist was injured yesterday morning at the intersection of Fort and Blanshard Streets in a collision of two motorcycles and a car.

Taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital suffering from cuts and bruises to his arms and legs was Edward L. Rodger, 812 Craigflower Road.

City police said a car driven west on Fort Street and turning south onto Blanshard Street by William H. Lawson, 1208 Dallas Road, was in collision with Rodger who was proceeding east on Fort Street. A motorcycle ridden in the same direction by Patrick J. K. Doran, 2943 Bridge Street, then collided with the rear of Rodger's machine.

Damage to the two motorcycles totaled $125 and the Lawson car received about $50 damage.

In a later accident, 16-year-old messenger boy Gavin Harper, 556 Kerr Avenue, received an injured right arm when the bicycle he was riding was in collision with an open car door. Police said the boy was riding his bicycle north on Wharf Street between Bastion and Yates Street when he was forced to ride close to parked cars to let a truck by.

As he was doing this, J. D. Smith, 2666 Shakespeare Street, opened his car door and the messenger was in collision with it.

Torn Pants Plea Absurd Speeder Told; Fined $35

A young motorcyclist in city police court yesterday gave a torn pair of pants his excuse for speeding along Fort Street July 10.

He was Wayne Thompson, 3051 Westdowne Road, who brought the trousers to court to show Magistrate H. C. Hall.

Constable Norman Galbraith, who charged Thompson with careless driving, said he saw the defendant exceed the speed limit on Fort Street and pass cars on the wrong side.

"When I stopped him eventually at the intersection of Fort and Davie Streets, he told me he was hurrying home to change his pants because they had a large tear in one leg," the constable said.

NEVER WARNED

The accused explained to Magistrate Hall he was working on a construction job in order to get enough money to continue his studies at the University of British Columbia. He showed the magistrate the ripped pants and said, "For this reason I was exceeding the speed limit." He added he didn't think he had endangered anyone, and had never been even as much as warned by police on any previous occasion.

"I can only look on that as an unreasonable and absurd excuse," commented Magistrate Hall. "The evidence of the constable has hardly been contradicted." He fined Thompson $35.

"Where do you live?" inquired the magistrate.

Thompson told him, and the magistrate asked:

"Is there bus service out there?"

"Yes," replied the accused.

"Licence suspended, too," ruled Magistrate Hall.

REMANDED

Ernest William Whitehouse, 1539 Oakland Avenue, was charged with dangerous driving and remanded to Monday for plea. He was represented by Gordon Poupore.

Charged with permitting drunkenness on his premises, Rham Singh, 530 Queens Avenue, was remanded without plea to Tuesday. Donald Cameron appeared for the defendant.

Unusual holiday trips are often reported in Victoria, and two Montreal Boy Scouts came up with one yesterday. Guy Bertrand (left) and Jean Marc Cordeau flew from Montreal to Fort William, thumbed lifts to Vancouver and arrived in Victoria yesterday—all in eight days. They are leaving for Hollywood today and then back to Montreal via the U.S.A.—again by thumb. Expected cost is $40 each.

Plan to Span Fraser at Rosedale With New $1,500,000 Toll Bridge

A $1,500,000 toll bridge will be constructed across the Fraser River at Rosedale.

Premier Byron I. Johnson announced yesterday the Cabinet has authorized Works Minister E. C. Carson to enter into an agreement with the Cheam Bridge Company for construction of the bridge and for setting tolls.

The new structure will replace the Agassiz-Rosedale ferry.

Construction of the toll bridge by a private company was authorized by a special act of the Legislature at the last session.

Premier Johnson said the Cheam Bridge Company is the only company which has applied for permission to build.

OVER MAIN CHANNEL

The bridge will cross the main channel of the Fraser, about 1,400 yards downstream from the existing low-water ferry landing on the south side of the river.

Adequate provision will be made for water-borne traffic, as required by the Federal Government. The structure is to be completed within 18 months after the agreement is signed. The Public Works Department will construct the approaches.

Financing, construction, maintenance and operation of the bridge must meet with the approval of the Minister of Public Works and the Public Utilities Commission. Except with the approval of the commission, tolls are not to exceed ferry rates.

Premier Johnson said the bridge would do much to improve traffic conditions throughout the Fraser Valley and it would be an important adjunct to the new Hope-Princeton Road.

CHAPTER XL—Continued

"Iodine," read the Inspector. "Pearls. Ah, pearls."

"And then Lotty—no, Letty. Her e's look like o's. And then Berne. And, what's this? Old Age Pension . . ."

They looked at each other in bewilderment.

Bunch asked: "Does it mean anything? Anything at all? I can't see any connection."

Craddock said slowly: "I've just a glimmer—but I don't see. It's odd that she should have put down that about pearls."

"What about pearls? What does it mean?"

"Does Miss Blacklock always wear that three-tier choker of pearls?"

"Yes, she does. We laught about it sometimes. They're so dreadfully false looking, aren't they? But I suppose she thinks it's fashionable."

"There might be another reason," said Craddock slowly.

"You don't mean that they're real. Oh! they couldn't be!"

"How often have you had an opportunity of seeing real pearls of that size, Mrs. Harmon?"

"But they're so glassy."

Craddock shrugged his shoulders.

"Anyway, they don't matter now. It's Miss Marple that matters. We've got to find her."

They'd got to find her before it was too late? Those pencilled words showed that she was on the track . . . But that was dangerous—horribly dangerous. And where was Fletcher?

Craddock strode out of the Vicarage to where he'd left his car. Search—that was all he could do—search.

A voice spoke to him out of the dripping laurels.

"Sir!" said Sergeant Fletcher urgently. "Sir——"

Dinner was over at Little Paddocks. It had been a silent and uncomfortable meal.

Patrick, uneasily aware of having fallen from grace, only made spasmodic attempts at conversation—and such as he did make were not well received. Phillipa Haymes was sunk in abstraction. Miss Blacklock herself had abandoned the effort to behave with her normal cheerfulness. She'd changed for dinner and had come down wearing her necklace of cameos, but for the first time fear showed from her darkly-circled eyes, and betrayed itself by her twitching hands.

Julia, alone, had maintained her air of synical detachment throughout the evening.

"I'm sorry, Letty," she said, "that I can't pack my bag and go. But I presume the Police wouldn't allow it. I don't suppose I'll darken your roof—or whatever the expression is—for long. I should imagine that Inspector Craddock will be around with a warrant and the handcuffs any moment. In fact, I can't imagine why something of the kind hasn't happened already."

"He's looking for the old lady—for Miss Marple," said Miss Blacklock.

"Do you think she's been murdered, too?" Patrick asked with scientific curiosity. "But why? What could she know?"

"I don't know," said Miss Blacklock dully. "Perhaps Miss Murgatroyd told her something."

"If she's been murdered, too," said Patrick, "there seems to be logically only one person who could have done it."

"Who?"

"Hinchliffe, of course," said Patrick triumphantly. "That's where she was last seen alive—at Boulders. My solution would be that she never left Boulders."

"My head aches," said Miss Blacklock in a dull voice. She pressed her fingers to her forehead. "Why should Hinch murder Miss Marple?" It doesn't make sense."

"It would if Hinch had really murdered Murgatroyd," said Patrick triumphantly.

Phillipa came out of her apathy to say:

"Hinch wouldn't murder Murgatroyd."

Patrick was in an argumentative mood.

"She might have if Murgatroyd had blundered on something to show that she—Hinch—was the criminal."

"Anyway, Hinch was at the station when Murgatroyd was killed."

"She could have murdered Murgatroyd before she left."

CHAPTER XLI

Startling them all Letitia Blacklock suddenly screamed out:

"Murder, murder, murder—Can't you talk of anything else? I'm frightened, don't you understand? I'm frightened. I wasn't before. I thought I could take care of myself . . . But what can you do against a murderer who's waiting—and watching—and biding his time!"

She dropped her head forward on her hands. A moment later she looked up and apologized stiffly.

"I'm sorry. I . . . I lost control."

"That's all right, Aunt Letty," said Patrick affectionately. "I'll look after you."

"You?" was all Letitia Blacklock said, but the disillusionment behind the word was almost an accusation.

That had been shortly before dinner, and Mitzi had then created a diversion by coming and declaring that she was not going to cook the dinner.

"I do not do anything more in this house. I go to my room. I lock myself in. I stay there until it is daylight. I am afraid—people are being killed—that Mis Murgatroyd with her stupid English face—who would want to kill her? Only a maniac! Then it is a maniac that is about! And a maniac does not care who he kills. But me, I do not want to be killed! There are shadows in that kitchen—and I hear noises—I think there is someone out in the yard and then I think I see a shadow by the larder door and then it is footsteps I hear."

"So I go now to my room and I lock the door and perhaps even I put the chest of drawers against it. And in the morning I tell that cruel hard policeman that I go away from here. And if he will not let me I say: 'I scream and I scream and I scream until you have to let me go!'"

Everybody, with a vivid recollection of what Mitzi could do in the screaming line, shuddered at the threat.

Mr. and Mrs. Simmonds To Live in Chemainus

CHEMAINUS, B.C., July 19.—A wedding of interest was solemnized Saturday, July 15, at St. Michael and All Angels' Church when Rev. J. A. Partridge united in marriage Norma May, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bennetts, Chemainus, and Harry Simmonds, second son of Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Simmonds, Crofton.

Given in marriage by her father, the fair, stately bride entered the church to the strain of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Mr. Frank Mantle. Her gown was of pink French lace and nylon net over taffeta styled with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline and full skirt. Her pearl-studded headdress held a pale pink bridal veil caught with pale pink lily of the valley, and her bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis was outlined with pearls.

Miss Marion Heslip, bridesmaid, wore pale blue sheer nylon over taffeta, with full length skirt with deeper blue taffeta band trim. Matching blue lace mittens, floral bandeau of blue with shoulder veil and bouquet of yellow roses and deep blue cornflowers completed her costume.

Mr. C. W. Simmonds, brother of the groom, was best man, and ushers were Mr. Frank Beauchamp of Chemainus, and Mr. Frank Hayes of Duncan.

Mrs. J. H. Bennetts, the bride's mother, wore an afternoon frock of blue with lace trim, her hat and accessories of darker blue and corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Simmonds, the groom's mother, chose a navy blue bolero costume with blue accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. G. Hatton, of Vancouver, and Miss Isobel Elliott, superintendent of home economics in Vancouver schools presided at the table.

General convener Mrs. H. J. Scrats was assisted by Mrs. B. Norberry, Miss Lilas Milne, Mrs. Muriel Fraser and Miss Mary Robertson. Miss Yvonne Love was in charge of flower arrangements.

History of Lowly Bean Dates to Grecian Times

Beans were cultivated long before the commencement of recorded history. They were well known to ancient Grecians and Egyptians and when the first voyagers reached this continent they found various types of beans growing profusely. Beans offer interesting variety to suit every taste. Europeans prefer the broad thick types but the slender long-podded varieties are more common in America.

Another valuable quality of some beans is the suitability for use either immature or fully ripened. The edible podded varieties, which are at their best through July and August, are commonly known as "string beans" but are tender, crisp and stringless and may be either yellow or green. The yellow type are often called "butter beans" . . . perhaps because they are so good when served with butter.

When buying fresh beans, see that they are crisp and tender when broken. Toughness or limpness is a sign that the beans are too old in either growth or in the length of time they have been kept after gathering. Green beans are often called "snap" beans because of the way in which they break when young and fresh.

The season for beans extends because it is possible to have several crops during the Summer.

Fresh beans are always delicious when boiled and seasoned with butter but if they are served with a variety of sauces and seasonings the family will never tire of them.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, suggest several variations in the preparation of beans as a vegetable and they say that a supply of beans pickled in mustard sauce is a decided asset in preparing Winter meals.

SWEET-SOUR BEANS

6 cups beans, cut in 1-inch pieces
1 cup boiling water
1 tablespoon minced onion
2 tablespoons melted fat
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of cinnamon

Cook beans in the boiling water for 15 minutes. Brown onion in the fat. Add sugar, vinegar, salt and cinnamon. Add to cooked beans. Simmer 10 minutes. Yield: Six servings.

Sherried Chicken

Sherried chicken in a casserole makes a delightful luncheon dish.

Cut up a three or four-pound frying chicken and sprinkle the pieces with salt and pepper. Flour lightly, and fry in oil (about ¼ cup). Put in a casserole. Add one cup of celery, diced, 2 tablespoons of minced onion, and one tablespoon of flour to the oil left in the skillet. Stir over low heat for about two minutes, season with salt and pepper, and then add to the chicken. Add ¼ cup of cherry and ¼ cup of cream. Cover and bake in a moderate oven for 45 minutes until tender.

The Sketch Club of the Island Arts and Crafts Society will meet on Monday at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Featherstone, 1365 Rockland Avenue.

Cool, Tasty and Nourishing

Cool, Summer meals can be nourishing, too . . . if you're looking for a new idea in Summer meals, try some sliced, ready-to-serve meats from your butcher or delicatessen. These meals are so easy to prepare—no cooking—and so tasty and appetizing for hot Summer days. Cooked ham, jellied veal, salami and tongue sausage are a few of the many varieties that add substantial nourishment to salads and cold plates.

Cold Creme Vichyssoise Different Summer Soup

Creme Vichyssoise, the cold soup with a royal background (it is said to have been invented for Louis XIV of France) is probably the best known and the oldest of all the cold Summer soups. It may be bought happily in cans, or you can be a perfectionist and make it yourself.

Put the white part of 4 well-washed leeks through the food chopper with 1 medium-sized onion. Melt 4 tablespoons of sweet butter in a saucepan and add the leeks and onion. Cook for 2 minutes, stirring all the time, then add 4 medium-sized potatoes, peeled and thinly sliced. Moisten with 1 quart of chicken bouillon, season to taste with salt and white pepper. Cook for 40 minutes, being sure it does not scorch, and stir often. When done, rub through a fine sieve into another saucepan. Bring to boiling point and add 2 cups of scalded milk and 2 cups of coffee cream. Bring to a boil, check seasoning and put through sieve again. Cool, and then chill thoroughly. Just before serving stir in 1 cup chilled cream, pour into icy cups and sprinkle top with minced chives. Remember, it's got to be cold!

STIMSON IN HOSPITAL

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—Henry L. Stimson, 84-year-old former secretary of war, was in hospital today with a broken hip. The hospital said his condition was satisfactory. Stimson's family said he received the injury in a fall Sunday at his home.

Viscountess Astor was the first woman to take a seat in the British House of Commons as a result of a by-election November 15, 1919.

Meat Loaves for Summer

On a sultry Summer day the effort exerted in serving a hot dinner is seldom appreciated by the family.

Meat prepared in the cooler morning and put away so that it is ready to serve cold, gives the homemaker a good start on the dinner. It is a simple matter to prepare several of the vegetables which are abundant and delicious and thus serve what might be called a hot dinner with a minimum time in the kitchen on a hot afternoon.

The cold plate with crisp greens, a piquant salad and a slice or mould of cold meat often seems to be the perfect answer to Summer menu problems.

Such dinners satisfy both the cook and members of the family.

Pressed or potted meat, once a standby in every household, has been forgotten by many because of the variety of ready-to-eat meats now on the market.

Jellied meats and meat loaves are also among the economical meats which may be made and ready to serve for cool meals on hot days.

Checks Menu Eye-Appeal

It is no idle whim that has prompted one of New York's gloss-iest restaurant chains to station a food "stylist" at the head of its various dinner plate assembly line. This occupation consists solely of checking on the appearance of dishes as they leave the kitchen, arranging an order to make it look more appetizing, adding a sprig of parsley between two yellow vegetables, and so on.

Summer menus particularly lend themselves to this glamorizing treatment, as the offerings at the greengrocer are voluminous and colorful. There's no need to place a broiled tomato, sliced beets and rare roast beef in a monotone arrangement of reds when so many auxiliary accents of green abound—a sprinkling of chives, a dash of watercress or parsley would provide a quick beauty treatment and increase the appetite appeal. Or a paild looking filet of sole, flanked by whipped potatoes and steamed cauliflower might use some extra styling in a combination of greens and reds—with paprika highlights dusted over the vegetables and sprigs of parsley tucked at the sides.

Keep a pantry shelf of menu sparkplugs. Try emerald green mint flavored jelly, dried parsley flakes, the scarlet of tinned pimientoes, the tartly flavored ruby accent of jellied cranberry sauce that now comes in small cans suitable for one meal—and spiced crabapples, or your own choices in relish and chutneys.

Actually such standby foils as apple sauce for pork and rich fowl, chutney with curry, and mint with lamb originated as digestive aids. Always try to balance a soft, creamy entree with accompaniments that are crisp or firm. And present strong flavors in combination with mild ones, spicy with bland, and so on.

The best chicken a la king tastes even better with an accent of French fried potatoes, while roast duck plus tartly flavored orange sauce have been complementing each so successfully for so long they've become a classic combination.

Though contrast stimulates interest, cluttered meals are to be avoided. It's usually best to build the meal around one main dish, for—as in any composition—there should not be too many points of emphasis. Select a focal point and gear the other foods to it—using the principles of contrasting color, flavor and texture.

Garden Tea

Plans for the Aged Women's Home fourth annual garden tea at the Collinson Street gardens, were discussed at a recent meeting of the four chapters of the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority. The affiar will be held August 12.

The following were named to take charge of arrangements: Misses Lucille Smith, Betty Armstrong, Eleanor Hooson and Helen McKee, Zeta chapter; Miss Mary Youson and Miss Joyce Nicholls, Xi Beta; Miss Hilda Bates of Omicron, and Miss Wayne of Xi.

A musical program will accompany refreshments throughout the afternoon and attractive knitted and handmade articles by the ladies of the Home will be on sale.

Sisters of St. Ann Plan Celebration of Centenary

Sisters of St. Ann in Victoria will celebrate the 100th birthday of their order next Wednesday.

Special services will mark the growth during the past century from a community of five to an order that has included more than 2,200 Sisters.

The order was founded September 8, 1850, in Vaudreuil, Que., by Marie Esther Blondin (Mother Mary Anne) and four other women. Today it operates 127 establishments in 15 dioceses and three apostolic vicarates. It extends across Canada, the United States, Alaska and Haiti.

Schools and hospitals operated by the Sisters of St. Ann this year will teach some 27,000 children and will treat almost 30,000 patients.

FIRST CONVENT

The order came to Victoria in 1858 to establish the first convent in Canada west of St. Boniface.

Headquarters for St. Joseph's Province, which includes British Columbia, Alaska and the Yukon, is at St. Ann's Academy in Victoria, where Mother Mary Ludovic, Provincial Superior, leads 278 Sisters in their works of service.

The order now operates 11 elementary and high schools, seven mission schools and ten hospitals in St. Joseph's Province.

In Victoria, it operates St. Ann's Academy, St. Joseph's Hospital, St. Joseph's Villa, a T.B. sanatorium, St. Joseph's School of Nursing, and Mount St. Mary Infirmary.

OLDEST SISTER

Oldest Sister in the community today is Victoria's Sister Mary Theodore, who at 93 has been in the congregation for 76 of its 100 years.

Wednesday's centenary services will include a Pontifical Mass of Thanksgiving at 10 a.m. in St. Andrew's Cathedral. This is the only part of the celebration which will be open to the general public.

A centenary banquet honoring the clergy will be held at 12:30 p.m., with Most Rev. James M. Hill, Bishop of Victoria, presiding.

At 2:30 p.m. in St. Ann's Auditorium there will be a special commemorative program, including the "Song of the Century" and other works composed by the Sisters. This will be followed at 4 p.m. by an alumnae reunion tea.

Oldest Member of Order

Born only seven years after the founding of her order was Sister Mary Theodore, now residing at St. Ann's Academy in Victoria. She is oldest member of Sisters of St. Ann, who will celebrate 100th anniversary of order's founding Wednesday. Sister Mary Theodore has been a member of community for 76 years.

Doctor Finds Overbreathing Can Lead to Nasty Symptoms

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP).—Are you one of the many people who breathe themselves sick?

You can do it easily enough, through bad habits of breathing, sighing, yawning and swallowing. You over-breathe, get too much air into your lungs or stomach.

That can cause dizziness, chest pains, tingling or numbness in hands, feet or face, buzzing in the head, bloating, muscular aches, blurring of vision, dryness of mouth, even fainting.

The over-breathing—doctors call it hyperventilation — seems to be pretty common, Dr. Raymond L. Rice of Mount Sinai Hospital and Marquette University School of Medicine, Milwaukee, Wis., writes in the American Journal of Medicine.

Perhaps one in every ten persons who go to see doctors suffers from over-breathing, Dr. Rice says. Most people aren't aware of it. Even some physicians and medical students say they never heard of hyperventilation.

Some people take deep gasps of air, and then suffer. The gasp, with no reason to justify it, causes a sensation of smothering. Often people gasp when they are sleeping, or just waking. It is an explosive gasp, and often is an expression of anxiety or tension.

A second kind of over-breathing is a deep breath or sigh, taken to relieve emotional tension.

In a tense or unhappy situation, some people reach for a cigarette or chocolate. Others sigh or gasp, some yawn or sniff, or indulge in other over-breathing habits, Dr. Rice said. Some swallow too much, and with each swallow they swallow air. Swallowing isn't a harmless habit.

The treatment is to break up the habit of gasping, sighing, yawning or sniffing, Dr. Rice said. Just recognizing that you're guilty of it, and that it is causing trouble, isn't enough. The gaspers and sighers have to work at it to break the for a deep breath, and to breathe habit, learning to suppress the urge normally.

Trades, Labor Council Meets

Rejects Move to Urge U.N. Seat for Red China

Victoria Trades and Labor Council last night flatly rejected a recommendation that Red China be admitted to the United Nations.

The recommendation was contained in a resolution put to the members by International Association of Machinists' member Harold Thayer.

His resolution read in part that "this council go on record as supporting the stand of the United Nations in Korea . . . and recommends the admission of Red China to the United Nations as a means of ending the Korean conflict."

Shouts of "out of order" and "this motion involves p'o'w'e'r politics" greeted Mr. Thayer's resolution.

ANTI-COMMUNIST

"I am anti-Communist but I maintain that Red China has every right to a seat on the United Nations if it will mean the end of hostilities," Mr. Thayer said.

"Any action taken before the present conflict by the United Nations in giving Red China a seat might have prevented the Korean war.

"There will be no escape for the working man in the next war— . . . there are children to be thought of, for they will be the major home-front casualties in the next conflict," he said.

He said that Asia is throwing off the last traces of colonialism and that "there is every likelihood that a next war would mean colonialism and American capital against Russia and anti-colonialism.

"If the council votes in favor of this motion then the general public will think that we are supporting the Reds and that is a lot of hooey. I urge the delegates to defeat the motion," said Jack Reid, member of the Bakers' Union.

U.N. SUPPORTED

The members adopted the motion with the amendment that the latter part be dropped.

The amended motion read that the council "goes on record as supporting the U.N. stand in Korea."

Mr. Thayer was voted one of three delegates to attend a Trades and Labor convention to be held in Montreal, September 11.

Other two delegates named were Cherles Peck and Percy Rayment.

Rush Mill Job After Mishap

NANAIMO, July 19. — The green chain at Eureka Sawmills, Ltd., here will probably be in operation next Monday.

The old green chain destroyed by fire a week ago has been moved by a bulldozer, and the plan of the yard revamped.

The new green chain has been built about 30 feet from the former structure, which gives better delivery of lumber from the mill to the chain.

Millwrights, construction men and mill crews have brought the construction almost to completion in a week. Three shifts have been at work. Huge floodlights have been in use at night.

Rising Australian Divorce Rate Blamed on Housing Shortage

SYDNEY, Australia, July 19 —Greatest [illegible] in Australia today [illegible] —In 1947 [illegible] 197,000 [illegible] year [illegible] estimated [illegible] New South Wales [illegible] from [illegible] 1945 [illegible] end of 1949 [illegible] new homes were built [illegible] period.

[illegible] cost [illegible] most £1,000 [illegible] land [illegible] £2,500 to £2,700 [illegible]

AVERAGE HOME

The figures cover the average suburban home in Sydney or Melbourne consisting of two bedrooms, a living-room, dining [illegible] room, laundry [illegible] anda. [illegible] about 50 feet [illegible] nected to [illegible]

The shortage [illegible] of materials and skilled workmen is blamed for some [illegible] social tendencies.

Most new [illegible] with in-laws for a [illegible] several months after marriage. [illegible] divorce courts say this is responsible for many divorces. Many marriages are being postponed. Social workers say this increases immorality.

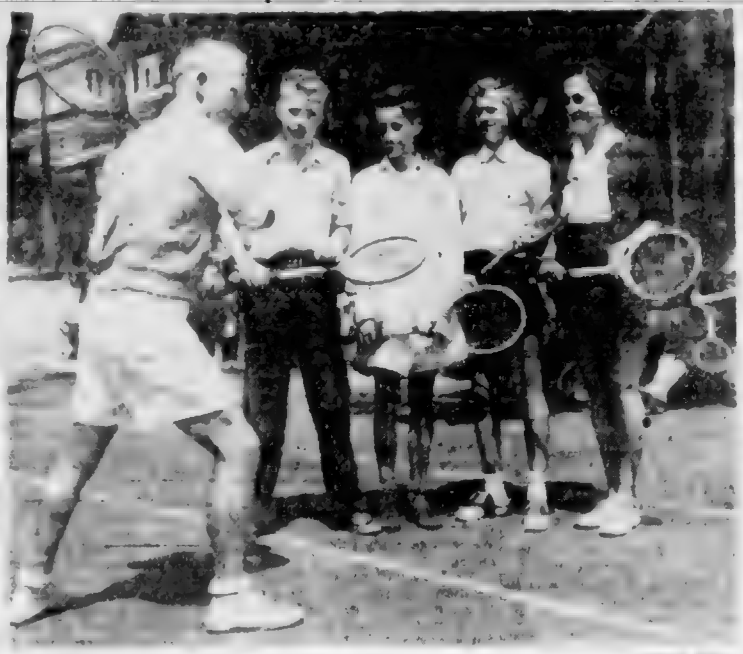
UNFIT FOR DWELLING

The life of old houses has been prolonged because no authority wants to demolish any dwelling house however decrepit it is. In Sydney alone there are an estimated 40,000 houses which health authorities say are unfit for habitation. Many families are living in makeshift dwellings—tents, shacks and trailers.

To cope with the problem, the government is encouraging immigrants with building experience and restricting construction to home-building and essential work. In [illegible] for example no new office buildings have been built since before the war and there is an acute shortage of office accommodation.

State and Federal Governments have sent missions abroad to examine prefabricated houses which will be imported duty-free and, in some cases, under Government subsidy. Prices are high, however and experts view the prefabs as little more than a stop-gap program.

Former Tennis Champion Gives Instruction at Playground



Chief tennis instructor Ed Kelter of Pro-Rec and former junior tennis champion of Denmark is pictured above demonstrating correct form for backhand to group of admiring youngsters at [illegible] Park this week. Tennis instruction at local playgrounds is one of most popular activities. Future tennis stars watching Mr. Kelter, left to right, are: Ted Crozier, Jim Moffat, Beverly Koski and Joanne Work.

Take My Word For It

By Frank Colby

ON CHOOSING NAMES FOR ONE'S CHILDREN

Several years ago I wrote a column which offered some helpful advice on choosing names for one's children. So many parents and prospective parents write to me for advice that I have thought it wise to reprint the column.

Mothers often find names in novels and magazine stories—names that strike them as romantic, elegant, or glamorous, such as Cherie, Lamour, Heloise, Johnetta, Sylvania, Phoebedella, Billye, Estrelita. Others seek to coin names by combining family surnames as "Jonith" from Jones and Smith, "Hughlock" from Hughes and Bullock, "Cornett" from Cornwell and Jewett. Still others lean toward names from mythology, as Apollo, Helios, Aphrodite, Cytherea.

In my opinion, one should think twice before giving a child an odd or unfamiliar name, or one that may be commonly mispronounced or misspelled or one that makes an unhappy combination with the surname.

My recommendations, for what they may be worth, are:

1. Do not mix nationalities as Jeanne (French) Schultz (German); Olga (Russian) Murphy (Irish); Wilhelmina (German) Le-Blanc (French).

2. Do not choose names that go buckety-buckety, as Jefferson Emerson Adamson; Lilybelle Annamae Merriwell; Meredith [illegible] Upchurch; Christabel Barbara Malinowski.

3. Do not combine two names that rhyme unpleasantly, or which repeat a harsh or flat sound, as, Jack Lack; Hubert Ruppart; Rider Snyder; Haddox Maddox; John O Bonno; Abner E. Abernathy.

4. Avoid names that sound like sentences or fragments of sentences, as Foster Brothers; Ura Nichols Worth; Otto B. Goode; Cherry Pitts; Ivan Angle; Sallie Forth (actual names).

5. Avoid names which suggest historical personages, unless you have a family right to such names, as George Washington; Woodrow Wilson; Franklin D. Roosevelt; Mark Anthony; Noah Webster.

6. Foreign-sounding surnames should not be emphasized by equally foreign given names. Charles Wang is preferable to Yuan-Chang Wang; James Hernandes is preferable to Yanez Hernandez; Frank Takahira is preferable to Yanosuke Takhira; Charles Guildbaldo is preferable to Guiseppe Guildbaldo.

7. Avoid masculine given names which small boys regard as "sissy": Archibald, Percival, Arbuthnot, Burlingame, Cavendish, Cuthbert, Grosvenor, Marmaduke Hollingsworth.

8. Avoid feminine given names that are not names but adjectives, as Darling, Precious, Lovely, Beautiful. Also avoid cloying "names" like Honey, Sugar, Lovie, Sweetie, Pet, Baby (or Bebe). Avoid feminine given names that can be taken as masculine as Billie, Freddie, Jimmy, Frankie, Leslie, Pat, Tommy, Cecil. Do not coin names as Lulubeth, Marvilla, Bonnieto, Corabelle, Margarboda.

Here are two sensible and safe ways to name one's children:

1. Choose a name from the long list of traditional Christian names. Such names are listed, defined, and pronounced in the good dictionaries.

2. A mother's family name is often acceptable as a given name for a son. If her maiden name was Harris and her married name is Williams, the son may be named Harris Williams, etc. Care must be exercised not awkward or harsh-sounding combinations result, as Pfefferkorn Radetski; better John Radetski; Paxton Thaxton Rotterhammer Smith.

Final caution: Avoid names with such initials as F.O.B., P.D.Q., I.O.U., C.O.D., B.V.D., S.O.S. or initials which spell unpleasant words as H.O.G., H.A.G., R.O.T., A.P.E., B.O.T., B.U.G. Avoid such out-of-date Biblical names as Absalom, Ebenezer, Hezekiah, Obadiah.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

THE WORD "ONION"

Few things can be closer to each other than the layers composing an onion, and therein lies the secret of its name. In onion there is union!

"Onion" comes through the French "oignon" from the Latin "unio," meaning "union" or "oneness." Look up the word "one" in your dictionary and you will find a vast Teutonic history for it—for it came into English by the northern route—all leading, however, to the Latin "unus." The vowel change is from the "u" to "o," as in onion from union.

This union of the onion's many layers has led to its use, at various times, as a symbol. It is interesting also to find that the Latin "unio," which is behind "onion," served also to name a pearl! However, the diminutive pickled onions now commercially called "pearl onions" have no more connection with this fact than that this tiny end-product of the onion struck someone's imagination as a little pearl.

Ex-Footballer Paul Douglas To Lead in "Humpty Dumpty"

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 19. (INS)—[illegible] Douglas, a football player with [illegible] Philadelphia Yellow Jackets in his youth, gets a chance to run with the ball again in "Humpty Dumpty." It's a magazine story by William Fay which Darryl Zanuck bought just for Paul.

If Paul and his bride, Jan Sterling, keep working so hard, when in the world are they going to get in that honeymoon?

TO START WORK

Betsy Drake, who told me just before she married Cary Grant that she's never going to let anything interfere with her career, hasn't made a picture since they were married. That's because she's too busy having fun dashing around the country and going to Mexico with Cary.

But he'll soon be starting work and so will Betsy. Jack Warner has bought a comedy, "A Baby for Maisie," for Betsy and Dennis Morgan.

The story, by James R. Webb, appeared in Good Housekeeping Magazine last month. It's a high comedy along the lines of "Pretty Baby," which also stars Mr. Morgan and Miss Drake.

CARUSO'S WIFE

Ann Blyth's appearance on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot means that she's going to play Mrs. Caruso.

I remember Dorothy Caruso when the great tenor married her. She was a statuesque beauty who was much taller than Enrico. But the petite Ann won't be taller than Mario Lanza, the movie Caruso.

VISITS RITA

Doris Warner Vidor writes from Chateau l'Horizon, in Cannes, where she and her husband, Charles Vidor, and myself, last year, attended Rita Hayworth's wedding reception.

"Being here reminded me of you. Rita and Aly are both wonderful. He is still having much discomfort from his broken leg and it looks like a long time ahead, but they are very happy. The baby is a darling and they are both such sweet and thoughtful people.

"Rita would like to come back to Hollywood to make a film," said Doris, [illegible] contract [illegible] she feels it's impossible.

Uncle Wiggily Story

By Howard Garis

ACROSS FROG POND

Uncle Wiggily looked at his rabbit lady wife and his rabbit lady wife looked at Uncle Wiggily. Then Uncle Wiggily twinkled his pink nose at his rabbit lady wife. And then the rabbit lady wife twinkled her nose at Uncle Wiggily. For that was a game at which both could play.

The bunny uncle was holding in his paw a letter which had come to his hollow stump bungalow while he was spending a few days with Hippo's Circus.

"What is the letter about, Wiggy?" asked Uncle Wiggily's wife.

"It is from Presto Change the jolly magician," answered Mr. Longears. "And it says he has sent me a houseboat which is now in Frog Pond, near my Amusement Raft."

"That was very kind of Presto Change," said Mrs. Longears. "But what are you going to do with a houseboat, Wiggy?"

"Do with it, my dear? Why, go sailing across Frog Pond, of course! But, as I think this is a motor houseboat, I suppose I should say we will go motoring, not sailing across Frog Pond. The houseboat will go much faster than my big, clumsy Amusement Raft."

"Yes, Wiggy, it will," said the rabbit lady wife. "Oh, what fun we shall have going on voyages in the houseboat! But I suppose we can't go sailing, or motoring, across Frog Pond until Hollow Tree school closes. We can't take the children out of school."

"No, I wouldn't want to do that, my dear. But you and I and some of our friends can go [illegible] across Frog Pond and the children can stay here in the bungalow with Nurse Jane. Then, when Hollow Tree school closes, we'll take the children on the houseboat."

Just then Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy crept into the room. She flipped her long tail on which was tied a pink-green ribbon and blinked her eyes.

"Yes, Nurse Jane, what is it?" asked Mrs. Longears.

"What shall we give Uncle Wiggily for supper?" asked Nurse Jane.

"I think some chopped cabbage with carrot shortcake would be nice," said Mrs. Longears. "Would you like that, Wiggy?"

"Very much, my dear. Thank you, Nurse Jane. Is there something else you would like to ask, Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy?"

"Yes, Uncle Wiggily. I couldn't help hearing you and Mrs. Longears talking about a houseboat. Please tell me what is a houseboat. I know what a boat house is, but a houseboat . . . ?"

"A houseboat, Nurse Jane," said Uncle Wiggily, "is a large motorboat with a house on it."

"A real house that you can live in?"

"Yes, Nurse Jane, just like our bungalow here, except that I can go on voyages across Frog Pond in my houseboat. You shall come with us, Nurse Jane, as soon as the children are out of school. But tomorrow my wife and I and some friends will go for a ride across Frog Pond in my new houseboat, just to get used to it. We'll start in the morning."

Buster, Bunty and all the animal children were delighted when they heard about Uncle Wiggily's new houseboat. They could hardly wait for school to close. But they had to. They were all up early next morning to go to Frog Pond to see Uncle Wiggily, his wife and some friends start off in the new boat.

Uncle Wiggily turned over the motor. It went "Put! Put! Put! Chug! Chug! Chug!" And away went the houseboat across Frog Pond. But suddenly a voice on shore shouted:

"Hi! Hi! Wait for me!"

"It's Uncle Butter the goat," said Mrs. Longears. "I wonder what he wants?" Uncle Wiggily also wondered. And as you do, also, I suppose. I'll tell you tomorrow if the glass of water doesn't turn upside down going upstairs and spill all over the banister rail.

WAR BONUSES GRANTED

American merchant seamen will get special war risk bonuses if they serve on ships in waters off Korea and China.

Atlantic and Gulf Coast ship operators reached an agreement on the matter yesterday with the C.I.O. maritime union.

Seamen will get double pay plus $100 if the port is attacked when serving in any harbor in five specified areas of Korea and China.

They will also get $125 each if their ship is damaged in attack or by mine.

The agreement is retroactive to July 3.

It also provides war risk insurance up to $10,000 for loss of life or $500 for loss of effects.

REACHES SAFETY

A 2[illegible] and Washington man reached safety but his [illegible] companion was believed drowned when their 75-foot converted minesweeper went down 100 miles at sea off the Oregon coast Monday.

Gerald Kellogg of Vancouver, Wash., was found alive on Cannon Beach, Oregon, after drifting for about 100 miles in a small dinghy for 48 hours.

His fishing partner, 40-year-old C. J. Griffin, also of Vancouver, was thought to have drowned after he refused to leave the sinking boat. Kellogg said he saw his companion leap into the ocean seconds before their vessel went down but did not see him reappear again.

Kellogg launched the dinghy after the boat sprang a leak and one of the [illegible] pumps went out. The leak was first noticed early Monday when the men were 100 miles at sea west southwest of the Columbia lightship.

NO ATTENTION PAID

Several tankers went by Kellogg's dinghy Monday night but failed to see an improvised torch twisted out of writing paper he found in his suitcase. His craft was enveloped in fog all day Tuesday and Tuesday night.

Kellogg saw Cannon Beach Wednesday morning after the fog had lifted and rowed until he reached shore exhausted, haggard and hungry.

Pachena is about 80 miles from Victoria.

Taking the $24,000 vessel to Tofino were crew members Harold Monks, Murdo MacLeod, Harold Sloman and Alex MacLeod.

The ship, carrying 40 men, was built at the Burrard Drydock Company plant and was launched in January.

City resident in picture hopes she won't get lost in undergrowth on way home from work. Although paved, the sidewalk is quickly becoming a tortuous trail as weeds and wild flowers appear to be winning battle for existence.

Canadian Amateur Golf Title Safe For Dominion Star; Outsiders Drop

SASKATOON, July 19 (CP)—A Canadian will win the Canadian amateur golf championship for the first time since 1948. That much was determined at the Saskatoon Golf and Country Club today when four Westerners and an equal number of Easterners survived two rounds to advance into the quarter-finals of the annual tournament.

Two British Columbians, Hugh Morrison and Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver, head the Western bid. They are the survivors of a strong six-man Coast bid for the title won last year by Dick Chapman, Pinehurst, N.J., who did not defend.

Mawhinney, rated as the man most likely to upset favored Nick Weslock, carried his sore thumb into today's play as he defeated Edmonton's Hamilton Dreyer in the morning 4 and 3 and Winnipegger [illegible] 3 and 1 in the afternoon. [illegible] Don McAlister [illegible]. He defeated Greg [illegible] 3 and 2 in the afternoon, to reach the round of eight.

VICTORIAN BOWS

Victoria's Bob Morrison bowed [illegible] to Allan Boes [illegible] Montreal [illegible] in the afternoon [illegible] Laurie Roland, British Columbia junior champion, 4 and 3 in the morning round but three-putted the second extra hole against the steady Winnipeg golfer to lose the match. Don Ross and Dick Moore, Vancouver, also lost out today.

Bob Hall, 19-year-old Montreal star, pulled the day's upset in the morning when he ousted the lone United States threat, [illegible] Montana, by 2 and 1 [illegible]. Hall reached the quarter-finals with a [illegible] victory over Gene Gray, Edmonton.

Despite a stomach ailment the favored Weslock moved through the day's matches without undue difficulty. Jerry Kesselring, another Ontario Willingdon Cup player, joined Weslock in the quarter-finals by defeating Doug Silverberg, Alberta junior champion, in the afternoon. Weslock advanced to the quarters at the expense of Johnny Peirson, Montreal's golfing hockey star.

MILD UPSET

Don Doe of Granby, Quebec, ousted Ross in the morning and pulled a mild upset in the afternoon when he turned back Jack Nash of London, Ontario, 3 and 2. Vern Mohs of Edmonton defeated Mike Pidlaski, Winnipeg, 1 up to complete the field for the quarter-final round.

With both Roland and Silverburg eliminated from the tourney, Royal Canadian Golf Association officials must decide on the junior title play-off. The youngsters were tied Sunday after the regular 36 holes at 152 and in the first play-off Monday, tied at 73. There appeared a possibility the match would be staged Thursday afternoon.

Fifth-round (quarter-finals) draw for the Canadian Amateur golf championship:

Vern Mohs, Edmonton vs. Bob Hall, Montreal.

Hugh Morrison, Vancouver, vs. Nick Weslock, Windsor, Ont.

Bill Mawhinney, Vancouver, vs. Don Doe, Granby, Que.

Allan Boes, Winnipeg, vs. Jerry Kesselring, Kitchener, Ont.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Football, or any sport for that matter, needs inter-city competition. It was good news, therefore, to learn a couple of weeks back that George Kulai had agreed to take the Victoria United coaching job and that the new executive is to give him a free hand to put his ideas into operation. With his signing United was suddenly transformed from a club with an extremely dubious future to a strong organization.

Strangely, Kulai's initial and perhaps, greatest, value to United is not his acknowledged coaching ability. It is the fact that he is probably the only man capable of getting the co-operation of all city soccer officials and players. It must be granted, however, that respect for his coaching ability is what makes this possible.

United has a long way to go. Club fortunes hit a new low last season when the apathy of the players often made it difficult to field a side and the resultant apathy of spectators made inter-city soccer a losing proposition. The club wound up its season by forfeiting an important match to St. Andrews and deserves the fine imposed by the Coast Soccer League for its action.

This will be changed next season. There won't be any shortage of players with Kulai as coach, and players who are selected for the club will be on hand at every match. United this season will be a younger team, it will be in condition, it will play football and it will improve. Newspaperman Harry Young, the new president, knows what is needed for public relations and this important part of sports promotion will also be improved. Better football and better promotion is all that the game ever needed. The only doubtful item now is United's status in the Coast Soccer League.

Rumors persist that Victoria will be squeezed out, but this possibility, even in the face of the St. Andrews incident, seems reasonably remote. Mainland clubs need Victoria's playing surface and the club reorganization is certain to get favorable recognition. Give United a schedule to count on, let the club keep its home gate and pay its travelling expenses and inter-city soccer in Victoria will be a success. As such, it will boost all city soccer, detractors to the contrary.

B.C. Forest Products took a grip on the fourth play-off spot in the Senior "A" Men's Softball League by handing Bluebird Cabs, previous co-holders of the fourth rung, a 3-2 ten-inning defeat at Upper Central last night.

Each team has five games remaining with one each against Douglas Tire, Chinese Students and Brentwood Aces. Millinen and Cabbies meet each other twice, including a replay of an earlier tied game.

BEST PERFORMANCE

With the game an important one for both clubs, the teams turned in one of the best performances of the season with Cabbies being charged with the only error.

The loss was all the harder to take for Charlie McKay [illegible] for the Cabbies. He limited the Lumbermen to a lone safety by Le Wilson and seven walks in the regulation nine innings. George Brown greeted him with a double in the tenth and scored the winning run as Barry Jackson, Millinen's hurler, followed with a single through the middle.

Jackson was equally effective, although tagged for eight hits. He was only in serious trouble in the eighth when singles by Charlie Sandbury and Cliff McKay and a walk filled the bases with none out. [illegible] a walk to force in the tying run. George Brown [illegible] to end the threat.

[illegible] you put [illegible] Have the face [illegible] open and [illegible] the ball from outside-in across the line of desired flight. By having the face open and swinging outside-in-across the direction line the ball goes straight toward the flag and at the same time the stroke made in this way gives a spin to the ball that stops it dead. But if you hit outside-in without having the clubface open, your ball will go off-line to the left. Get that point clearly in the mind. When you study this point, you'll see that the open face of the club counteracts the effect of hitting outside-in across the direction line.

Cards Break Three-Way Deadlock For Lead; Down Giants in Twin Bill

AMERICAN LEAGUE

[illegible]

St. Louis Cardinals yesterday broke the three-way deadlock for the National League lead as they pounded out a double victory over the New York Giants. The Phils dropped a game behind by dividing a double bill with Pittsburgh Pirates, while the Boston Braves lost a game and a half when the pesky Chicago Cubs handed them a trouncing.

Sparked by four home runs the Redbirds swamped the sinking Giants 18-4 in the first game and then came back for an easy 10-3 victory in the finale after a six-run second inning. Stan Musial hit safely in both games to run his consecutive game streak to 23.

TWO-RUN HOMER

Shortstop Gan Hammer won the [illegible] for the Phils when he hit a two-run homer in the 11th inning [illegible] deadlock. The Pirates scored once in their half but could not get the tying run across the plate. They came back behind Rookie Bill McDonald in the last [illegible] 4-2 win.

At Chicago, Shortstop Roy Smalley led the Cubs to their 11-3 triumph over the Braves. Smalley drove in four runs with his 15th home run, a double and a single. Rookie John Klippstein won the [illegible] for his first [illegible] and connected for [illegible] home run.

The scheduled [illegible] between Brooklyn and the Reds at Cincinnati was rained out.

Over in the American League the New York Yankees gained a half game on the leading Detroit Tigers. The Yanks downed the St. Louis Browns twice, 16-1 and 4-3, with John Mize and Ed Lopat in the limelight. Lopat had a no-hitter for seven innings in the first game, losing it when Roy Sievers led off the St. Louis eighth with a home run. He gave up a scratch hit later in the game for a neat two-hitter.

MIZE BATS .900

Mize won the finale with a home run blast in the eighth. It was his [illegible] home run in two days and his [illegible] hit of the day. The big slugger made nine hits in the three games with the Browns for a batting average of .900.

The Tigers stopped Boston Red Sox 9-5, with most of the run-making coming late in the game.

Bob Feller scored his ninth win of the year as he pitched Cleveland to a four-hit, 4-0, shutout over Philadelphia Athletics. Joe Gordon's [illegible] home run provided the Indians with two of their runs. In the other game, Washington Senators had to go ten innings to edge Chicago White Sox, 5-4.

6 IN MEMORIAM

GILES—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Harry A. Giles, who passed away July 20, 1946.

He went away without farewell,
He said good-bye to none,
But Heaven's gate was open wide,
And a loving Voice said "Come."

Beside his grave we often stand,
Our hearts are tired and sore,
There comes the words,
"Not dead, just gone before."

—Ever remembered by his loving wife, Carrie, and children.

WHAT PRICE—Four-room bungalow with full cement basement (extra room down), standard three-piece bathroom, brick fireplace in the living-room, and separate garage with cement floor. Does anybody want to figure the replacement cost today of this neat, attractively painted home with absolutely solid construction. Don't forget to count the cost of a splendid new gas automatic hot water heater, or the blinds and floor coverings or extra cement work. My guess is it would cost $8,500 for the lot and house. (If built at present costs.) The owner's asking price, with $2,250 cash is only $4600

PICTURE NO. 2 is you, sitting rent-free in a lovely four-room suite with lovely brick fireplace, oak floor in halls and oak border in the main rooms, new style range in the cabinet kitchen, new Pembroke bathtub and yes, you can have the drive-in garage. PICTURE NO. 3 is a nice old man. He occupies the comfortable basement room with private shower and toilet. He pays you a nominal sum as rent and also keeps the home fires burning while you are away at business and he looks after the yard and picks apples off the half-dozen trees. Los Angeles Seeks Place In Ice Loop

LOS ANGELES, July 19 (AP)—Owner Charlie Cord of the Los Angeles Monarchs hockey team said today he had made an offer to the Northern Division to take in his club as a seventh member of the Pacific Coast League.

"The Southern Division has collapsed through no fault of mine," Cord said, with the folding of the San Francisco, San Diego and Fresno teams.

Cord said he had offered to pay a portion of expenses for the six Northern teams to make two trips here each season. A final answer has not been received.

Scots Avert Big Upset By Collingwood

VANCOUVER, July 19 (CP).—Collingwood of the Vancouver and District Soccer League tonight came within a fraction of a second from scoring the greatest upset in Province Cup playoffs since Johnson Storage took both the Dominion and Provincial crowns in 1937.

Collingwood held a 2-1 lead with time running out in the final against St. Andrews of the Coast Soccer League, when Harry Smith booted home a cross from George Steele to give the Scots a 2-2 deadlock and force a replay next Wednesday. There was no time left for another face-off at centre.

The underdogs put up a stout defence supported by spectacular goal-keeping by Lorne Ettinger and the crowd of 1,500 gave vocal assistance. Ettinger made only one mistake when he thought a St. Andrews shot was going past in the first few minutes. He failed to cover and the ball entered the net for the opening goal.

Substitute Ken Campbell equalized with five minutes of regulation time remaining and Bill Leslie put Collingwood ahead after five minutes of extra play when he converted a cross from the left wing.

Crash Injures Two Persons

Two people were injured and about $600 damage was caused in a two-car collision on Hillside Avenue near Scott Street late last night according to city police.

James W. Nicholson, 2823 Graham Street, passenger in a car driven by his son, William J. Nicholson, and Phillip Austin, Gordon Head, driver of the other car, were treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital for minor injuries and later released.

Police say cars were traveling in opposite directions when the accident occurred.

Float Stresses Need for Return of Sidney Ferry

Float entered by Saanich Peninsula and Gulf Islands Review won first prize at 34th annual Sidney Carnival and Sports Day Meet held yesterday at Sidney. Float stressed feelings of nearly all Sidney residents for return of ferry service to Gulf Islands

Colonist Photo

A 35-pound squealing, squirming greasy pig is a difficult thing to hang on to, as above photo shows. Jack McLellan, Sidney electrician, caught porker in "greasy pig" contest. He made capture about 20 seconds after pig was released.

Hold Services

PORT ALBERNI, July 19.—Rev Glenn Stevenson officiated at funeral services for the late Mrs. Alice Dennis, 32, who died in Nanaimo General Hospital after a long illness. Interment followed at Dodgers Cove, near Bamfield. Mrs. Dennis was well known among the Indian population of Alberni Valley.

Mainland Funeral

DUNCAN, July 19.—Funeral services for the late Mrs. Effie Mary Field, who died on Tuesday in hospital, will be held on Friday at 2 p.m. in the Center & Hanna Chapel, Vancouver. Cremation will follow. Hirst Funeral Chapel, Duncan, is in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Field was born in England and came to British Columbia 44 years ago. She is survived by one son V. G. Field, Victoria, one daughter, Mrs. T. P. V. Cowley, Westholme, one brother in England, six grandchildren, and ten great-grandchildren.

Engineer Hurt

NANAIMO, July 19.—V. Elderfield of the Nanaimo Sulphate Mill engineering staff was treated for a lacerated forearm suffered while working at the plant. Dr. C. C. Browne attended.

Sidney Carnival Outstanding Event

Jack McLellan, electrician, is the hero of the 34th annual Sidney carnival and sports meet held yesterday at Sidney Memorial Park.

He caught the bacon in the form of a 35-pound pig. But it was no easy task and it involved plenty of fast footwork. He caught the porker in a "greasy pig" contest against about 25 unsuccessful contestants.

Those who thought the pig was well greased and might be slippery. Attendants working under a hot sun, slapped a pound of lard on the porker while about 600 grown-ups and children looked on.

TAKES 20 SECONDS

A hush fell over the crowd gathered to watch proceedings as the porker was turned loose. Everybody ran and in about 20 seconds it was all over. Out of a cloud of dust appeared Mr. McLellan firmly clutching a squealing, squirming pig and wearing about half the lard himself. The crowd cheered and unsuccessful pig-catchers retired in defeat.

The fast-moving sports day and carnival continued under the blazing sun. Al Bianco of the Victoria Pro-Rec team was the grand aggregate winner of the United Services Trophy. He was the top male athlete of the event.

The J. J. White Trophy went to the North Saanich High School. The students won the trophy with 50 points. They also won the Sidney Business Men's Trophy.

BASEBALL GAME

Highlighting the evening entertainment was a baseball game between Sidney Legionnaires and Noble's Warriors. The teams put up a good fight but the final score wound up a draw with a 2-2 score.

Hundreds of people and cars jammed the main road in Sidney shortly after noon to watch the parade of gaily-decorated floats, cars and bicycles.

Best float in the parade was entered by the Saanich Peninsula and Gulf Islands Review. It was a 24-foot ferry boat complete with smokestack which sent streaming clouds of smoke over the parade route. A garden scene with small greenhouse, entered by Mitchell & Anderson Limited, drew second prize. Honorable mention went to the Sidney Scout float.

Children decked out in bright costumes and riding bicycles and tricycles, added a gay touch to the parade. Riders were Linda Marshall, Shirley Greenwood, Christopher Jones and Joan and Fred Greenwood.

The day's activities wound up with a huge dance at the East Road Recreation Hall. North Saanich War Memorial Park Board sponsored the affair.

Duncan Court Sets Penalty

DUNCAN, July 19.—John Gilligan, Parksville, was fined $100 and costs, or in default three months in jail, by Magistrate G. A. Tisdall in police court on a charge of dangerous driving. Constable K. A. Attree told the court that Gilligan's automobile hit a telephone pole when he drove away from a parking place, and caused a truck to pull off the road to avoid a collision. Later Gilligan stopped on Eagle Heights Road hill and attempted to turn his machine by backing into the bush.

The magistrate fined Robert L. White $10 and $8 costs on a charge of driving without due care and attention. Mr. white was represented by R. L. Van Megroet, and Constable D. G. Thompson represented the Crown.

Douglas Cochrane, charged with retaining stolen property in the form of two automobile tires, had bail set at $1,000 in two sureties, until July 26.

Weather Forecasts

West Coast of Vancouver Island—Cloudy, clearing by noon. Little change in temperature. Light winds.

Port Alberni Man Saves Three From River Water

PORT ALBERNI, July 19.—Three near drowning cases in which one individual unselfishly and without hesitation plunged into the waters of the Somass River at Paper Mill Dam, saving three lives, occurred near the city.

Hero of the occasion was Harvey Walters, well-known local businessman and sportsman.

From onlookers it was learned that a man and his wife had gone to swim at Paper Mill Dam. The [redacted] had gone into the water ahead of his wife. He had got over his depth and had gone down for the first time when his wife plunged in [redacted] grabbed him by the hair on his head when he came up for the second time. It appears he then grasped her and took her down with [redacted].

Mr. Walters heard her call for help, and without hesitation plunged into the river. With the aid of another unidentified man, he got them both ashore, still clinging to each other.

They were brought around, but the woman was still suffering from shock when she left the spot.

An hour before that, a five-year-old girl got into difficulties by going out over her depth, and it was Mr. Walters who went to the rescue and was successful in saving her.

Excellent salmon fishing has been reported in Stuart Channel during the past week.

Luxurious Restaurants Vie for Soviet Prestige

Moscow, July 19 (CP)—The finest new restaurant to be opened in Moscow since the end of the war started business a few days ago.

It is called "The Ararat" and is operated by the Government of the Armenian Republic of the U.S.S.R.

The opening of this new restaurant began a heated competition in the field of middle-eastern foods. Moscow already has a large number of restaurants which specialize in Georgian, Armenian, Azerbaidzhan and Central Asian dishes.

They include several outstanding eating places opening in last year, such as the "Uzbekistan" and "The Baku."

However, the outstanding place where Muscovites could get the best "shashlyk" (broiled spited lamb), "pilaf" (a dish of lamb and rice) and the like has always been the Georgian restaurant, "The Aragvi."

That restaurant, which derives its name from a famous fast-flowing river of Soviet Georgia, occupies a fine establishment just off Moscow's main stem—Gorky Street.

"The Aragvi" has a fine Georgian orchestra and several times each evening presents a Caucasian male dancer in the traditional Caucasian uniform in a dagger dance. It has been visited by many famous American guests in the Soviet capital.

Now, however, it seems "The Aragvi" is going to have to share its laurels with "The Ararat."

The Armenian Republic has made strenuous efforts to see that its restaurant in Moscow will be in no way inferior to "The Aragvi" in the service of Armenian and Middle-Eastern foods and wines.

The best Armenian cook in Erevan has been engaged, acording to report, to take charge of the kitchen of "The Ararat," and the cream of Armenia's select wines and its famed high-quality cognac were brought in to stock the wine cellars of the establishment.

On the other hand, "The Aragvi" is prepared to meet the new situation. It is improving its already excellent cuisine and service and is counting on the loyalty of its old and favored customers.

Muscovites who love Middle-Eastern foods stand only to gain from the competition. The prospects are that there will be plenty of customers to keep both restaurants full.

Military Rites For Constable

REGINA, July 19 (CP).—A military funeral was held today for Const. Herschel T. Wood, 25-year-old son of R.C.M.P. Commissioner S. T. Wood.

Const. Wood, who died Saturday in Calgary after an automobile accident while on road patrol, was buried in the little R.C.M.P. cemetery.

The young Regina-born constable, who joined the force in 1946, was the third generation of the Wood family to serve with the force.

Nearly 200 officers and men of the Regina station took part along with representatives of the Government, city and railway police forces, army, navy and air force and the judiciary.

Disposes of Store

PARKSVILLE, July 19.—Nesbit's Grocery, which has been operated here by Thomas Nesbit for the past five years, has been purchased by Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Stapleton, formerly of Winnipeg. The Stapletons have been living at Parksville for the past few months as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Gowan.

Mr. Nesbit plans to take a holiday, and then probably reside at Vancouver for the time being. He lived at Port Alberni for several years prior to moving to Parksville.

See Blackfish

PARKSVILLE, July 19.—A large school of blackfish, a species of killer whale, was seen gamboling within 50 feet of shore near the mouth of French Creek.

Some of the boats out trolling for salmon were right in the midst of the large fish as they playfully rolled and spouted on their way up the coast. Fishermen reported the noise they made was terrific.

Retired Miner Laid at Rest

PORT ALBERNI, July 19.—Funeral services for the late James Smith were held in the Stevens Funeral Home. Rev. Glenn Stevenson officiated, and interment followed at Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Smith had been a resident of Port Alberni for the past 12 years. Before moving to the city he had been employed as a coal miner at Cumberland. He was a member of the Odd Fellows Lodge at Cumberland, and in his early days was active in union affairs.

He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. R. Lawson, Mrs. Cecil Blower and Mrs. W. Orth, Port Alberni, and Mrs. Ronald Sutton, Qualicum; also 16 grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

March 6 Lucky Day For Cafe Manager

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 28 (AP).—John G. Lampros, cafe manager, figures March 6 is his lucky day.

On March 6, 1930, he left Greece to come to the United States, where his father was naturalized.

On March 6, 1945, he got a furlough from fighting with the 34th Infantry Division in Italy to visit Greece, where he met a girl named Jean.

Lampros became engaged to her on March 6, 1946.

On March 6, 1950, Lampros received a $357 GI insurance dividend cheque and the same day received a certificate showing his citizenship.

LOS ANGELES, July 19 (INS).—All discharges in the United States Marine Reserves are now frozen, Armed Forces Information Service disclosed today.

A spokesman at Los Angeles headquarters said the order came in on a telephone call from Washington, D.C.

Builds Cycles, Midget Size, For Pleasure

KIDDERMINSTER, Worcestershire, England, June 26 (CP).—After a long day working on ordinary bicycles, Alfred Tabb settles down to his nightly hobby — making miniature ones.

His models aren't much bigger than roller skates. He believes they are the world's smallest. The largest of the seven he has completed in 12 years is 12 inches long and 5¼ inches high.

Alfred rides his own midget bikes at charity shows. He invites members of the audience to try it, but they usually fall off.

Housewives Indignant Over Saanich Water Shortage

—Colonist Photo.

Mrs. Eileen Silver, Shorncliffe Drive, pictured above, was just one of many Saanich housewives yesterday who had to get household chores done without aid of water. She is seen above hopefully glaring at inactive water faucet. Pails nearby will be used to collect water if and when it makes appearance. Water went off at 8 a.m. yesterday. Reason for shortage is fact that thousands of householders rushed to water lawns when Saanich Council eased up on restrictions and allowed sprinkling during daytime on alternate days. Previously, watering was only allowed at night, but new ruling permits householder to water during day, but only on his designated day. Municipal officials believe shortage will ease in few days after residents get over thrill of using water in daytime. One of hardest hit districts was in vicinity of Shorncliffe Drive and Synod Road.

Safe Anchorage Lacking in Area

Mayhew, Oak Bay Officials to Discuss Possibility of Building Breakwater

A proposed breakwater in the vicinity of the Oak Bay Boathouse will be discussed at a meeting next month between Oak Bay officials and Hon. R. W. Mayhew, Minister of Fisheries.

Oak Bay would like to see the breakwater constructed in the direction of Jimmie Chicken Island. In a recent letter to Mr. Mayhew, council contended the need for the breakwater is becoming more apparent every year. The lack of safe harbors in the area was stressed.

The minister informed the council he will arrive in Victoria July 29. He is expected to meet with Reeve P. A. Gibbs, municipal engineer A. S. G. Musgrave and other council members.

TURNED DOWN

On the recommendation of Councillor Jack Ruttan, parks committee chairman, council turned down an offer to purchase historic property situated at 449 Victoria Avenue, owned by Mrs. Frances Edwardes.

Mrs. Edwardes thought the municipality might want to acquire the property for the purpose of converting it into a park and playground. The house of squared logs, now shingled over, was built in 1854 by Capt. McNeill, who at that time was in command of the Hudson's Bay Company paddle steamer "Beaver."

"Considering the steadily decreasing number of links with the early settlers, the preservation of this, the old McNeill homestead, by Oak Bay would certainly be of interest to many," wrote Mrs. Edwardes.

APPROVED

The Hudson's Bay fifth unit subdivision plan, completing the subdivision south of Lansdowne Road through to the back of the lots fronting on Cadboro Bay Road, was given approval by the council. The subdivision contains 80 lots in all.

Mr. Musgrave, the approving officer, noted that this plan is much more complicated than former ones due to the irregular shape of the blocks. The same policy as in previous plans has been followed in that local improvement petitions are filed for paving all roads, placing concrete curbs and constructing sidewalks. The company will sign the petitions, and it will obtain an undertaking from purchasers that they will not oppose the local improvements at a future date.

CONDEMNED

On the recommendation of Fire Chief E. G. Clayards and Building Inspector P. K. Cunningham, council condemned an old, small house situated at 2413 Mowat Street.

Council will give owner Philip Oliver 60 days in which to remove the building. Firemen recently extinguished a roof fire at the house. Officials considered the house a fire menace and not safe for occupation.

NEW RADIOS

Councillor George Murdock informed the council new dual frequency two-way radios have been installed in fire department equipment, and police cars will be similarly equipped by next week.

URGES VOTE

Reeve Gibbs urged all Oak Bay ratepayers to get out and vote in Saturday's police commission by-election. He stressed the importance of exercising the right to vote.

Several of the 63 Foresters attending had more than 50 years' membership in the lodge and represented officers and members of Courts Maple Leaf, Triumph, Victoria and North Light.

Chief Ranger Brother G. S. Eden presided at a lodge meeting during the celebration and work of the world-wide organization was noted by members.

A joint installation of officers will be held July 28 at the Orange Hall, Courtney Street, under the auspices of Court Triumph.

Mr. McGrath served with the Irish Dragoons in India and South Africa and with the Lord Strathcona Horse Regiment in the Great War. He was formerly a member of the Calgary police force.

Surviving are his widow, Katie, and two nieces, Mrs. Russell Carruthers of Calgary, and another in Ireland. He was a member of Confederation Lodge No. 116, A.F. & A.M.

DOG-DAYS

The dog-days are so-called because of the supposed influence of Sirius, the "dog-star."

Report Easing Of Fire Risk

Forest fire hazard throughout British Columbia is low to moderate, the B.C. Forest Service reported yesterday.

Over the province as a whole, 32 fires were reported burning and 196 men employed in fighting them. All are under control except a blaze at Brohm River near Squamish, where 60 men are battling for control of a fire which has already covered 300 acres.

Medical Service Discussed For All Saanich Residents

THE Medical Services Association has informed Saanich the subject of community enrollment in its plan is now under discussion. The information came after Councillor William C. Kersey, at a recent meeting, asked that information be sought on the possibility of instituting the M.S.A. services for all residents of Saanich. The councillor felt if municipal employees could join the plan, then all residents should have the same benefit.

An M.S.A. official informed council that no clear-cut plan has yet emerged from the discussion, but as soon as it does the municipality will be notified.

Building Inspector in Saanich Plans Four-Stage Examinations

A new four-stage inspection system for the construction jobs will go into operation in Saanich in about one month, J. S. Taylor, building inspector, said yesterday.

Under the plan, it will be necessary for inspections to be carried out at the conclusion of four stages of construction—foundation work, frame work, lathe work and the finished product.

The onus will be on the builder to notify the building department when each stage is completed. It will be illegal for a builder to proceed with the next phase of construction until the wildcat well on the reserve, which previous stage inspected. This is aimed at controlling the unscrupulous builder who may try to cover faulty construction. At the conclusion of the final inspection, a certificate is given the builder stating the building is ready for occupancy.

Previously, the inspection system in Saanich has not been laid down in stages. The building inspector has done his best to get around to construction jobs as time will best allow. The new plan is designed along the same lines as a system used extensively in the United States.

Gasoline No Problem

Father, Son Finish Tour Of 400 Miles by Cycle

Gasoline prices posed no problem this year for the vacation of at least two Victorians.

They are Fred Parker, 1919 Belmont Avenue, and his 13-year-old son, Norman, who cycled more than 400 miles in one week through the Pacific Northwest United States.

Pedaling for Norman, however, was nothing new. He is a Daily Colonist carrier boy in the Fernwood district. Norman, who got a friend to take his route while he was away, is now back on the route, and still pedaling.

SLEPT UNDER STARS

Suntanned and feeling fit, the father and son returned Sunday and had their first night's sleep in a bed for nearly a week. Except for one night when they were rained out, the pair slept under the stars. All they carried was a groundsheet and a couple of blankets.

An employee of Canadian Industries Ltd., Mr. Parker last year also took his son on an extended bicycle trip.

The Parkers made 67 miles the first day, camping on the banks of the Hoh River near Forks, Washington. They made 105 miles the next day and 82 the third. They were soaked by rain three times in one day but the rest of the trip, they soaked up the sunshine.

Films in Park Start at Dusk

Five movies will be shown at the Cameron Memorial Pavilion tonight at dusk in Beacon Hill Park.

They are: "Let's All Sing," "Family Outing," "Maple Syrup Time," "Atlantic Salmon" and "Eskimo Arts and Crafts."

No admission is charged and all are welcome to the showings.

The films are sponsored by the Greater Victoria Film Council, Victoria Public Library, National Film Board and Victoria Parks Board.

Silkworms Preparing for Long Sleep

—Colonist Photo.

Miniature silk "factories" in photo above are about to go into production under watchful eyes of patients at Veterans' Hospital. Thousands of silkworms, hatched about a month ago, have been growing fat on mulberry-leaf diet, soon will begin to spin cocoons which, in turn, will be spun into silk by amateur sericulturists. Inspecting boxfull of worms are Mrs. M. Griffin, occupational therapist, and patient John Roberts.

'Bootlegged' Gas Blamed For Vancouver Deaths

VANCOUVER, July 19 (CP).—Bootlegging of gas in Vancouver has been one of the principal causes of 133 accidental deaths since 1942, says Plumbing Inspector Reginald Startup.

He was speaking to a special committee which has been set up to investigate the alarming number of deaths from illuminating gas.

Dr. Stewart Murray, city medical health officer, said the number of accidental gas deaths is climbing almost every year, far out of proportion to the deaths from the same cause in other cities.

In Toronto, from 1947 to 1949, 26 persons died from this cause, compared to 68 in Vancouver.

"Things have reached an alarming stage when more people have died from poisonous gas in the city so far this year than have been killed in traffic accidents," Dr. Murray said. "Not counting suicides, we have had 18 gas deaths, while there have been 11 traffic deaths."

Mr. Startup said there are four times as many meters going into homes in Vancouver as there have been permits issued, creating a dangerous situation.

"Too many people are doing their own plumbing," he said. "They are taking gas aff a central main, shutting down the pressure or cutting it off entirely, and causing some burners to go off in other rooms in a house."

The committee decided that a maintenance clause in the gas-fitting by-law is an absolute necessity and that the inspectors must have more authority.

Culbertson on Bridge

(Copyright, 1950, by Ely Culbertson)

In the vast majority of cases, when a declarer has eight trumps at his disposal, he hopes to get a 3-2 break of the missing five. Occasionally, however, he should hope and plan for a more unbalanced break of the suit! Observe this typical case.

West, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ A Q 3
♥ 10 7 6 4
♦ A K Q 8 2
♣ 5

WEST
♠ 4
♥ 9 8
♦ 6 3
♣ A Q J 10 8 7 3 2

EAST
♠ 9 7 5 2
♥ K Q J 2
♦ 10 9 7 4
♣ 9

SOUTH
♠ K J 10 8 6
♥ A 5 3
♦ J 5
♣ K 6 4

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
4 ♣	Double	Pass	5 ♠
Pass	6 ♠	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

South felt that he had such an excellent hand in the light of North's vulnerable double at the four-level that a mere bid of four spades would not fully exploit the situation. North did not bid the slam with any high degree of confidence, but he apparently felt that his distribution and his specific spade holding warranted this speculation. As he observed later, it did seem that South would turn up with a longer spade suit than he had!

A club lead by West would have given South a laydown, but West made matters difficult by opening the heart nine. South won and saw that he was in trouble. Five spade tricks, five diamonds and the heart ace did not add up to twelve tricks, and so he was in no position to draw trumps.

After a moment's thought, South found the perfect method of play against the distribution that existed and which figured to exist in view of the bidding. He cashed in his spade king, then, since he could not afford to lead another trump, he ran the diamonds, hoping that West was now out of trumps. South discarded two hearts, and when East ruffed the last diamond South overruffed. He then led the club king, and the defenders were helpless—South could not be kept from ruffing two clubs in dummy and taking the rest of the tricks.

Mother Sees Son in Law Second Time

NEW YORK, July 19 (NANA).—According to Die Welt of Hamburg, a West German woman set out the other day for Eastern Germany to visit her newly-married daughter and to meet hre son-in-law. She was carrying in her luggage a supply of bed linen—which is hard to get in the Soviet zone. It was to be a present for the newly-weds.

At the border, an Eastern customs official found the linen and confiscated the two suitcases containing it.

Empty handed and dejected, the woman reached her destination. As she sat in her daughter's home, telling the story of her bad luck, the son-in-law appeared, carrying two suitcases.

He paid no attention to the strange woman he thought he had never met, but turned to his wife and said: "Here, honey, we've got plenty of bed linen. No need to bother mother about it now."

Mother recognized hre suitcases—and the customs official!

Some Figures About Overweight

By DR. J. B. WARREN

If you are 35 years of age, you should not let yourself become overweight. People past 45 who weight 20 per cent more than the average have a death rate greater by one-half than the average for their age. If they have a persistent 40 per cent, the rate is almost double that of the average.

There is no mystery about removing excess fat from the body. Too much food and too little exercise put it on; less food and more exercise will take it off.
